U.S. Considering Supplying Allies With Atom Bombs

Military Arguments For And Against Developing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Military officials are considering the idea that the United States should arm its North Atlantic allies with atomic bombs.

Discussions are in the preliminary stage, and the military authorities are still far from a recommendation on which President Truman might base a proposal to Congress.

The idea of placing atomic bombs within reach of Britain, France and other allies is being explored thoroughly, however, and military arguments are developing both for and against it.

Advocates contend that some way must be found to arm western Europe faster and cheaper than is possible with conventional weapons.

They argue that the job must be done in two years, the earliest time by which it is estimated Russia may have a stockpile of atomic bombs adequate for a major blow in an atomic war.

The proposal for A-bomb sharing, friends of the proposal say, calls for a revolutionary concept of western defense. In brief this concept calls for replacing many expensive ground troops in Europe with bombing groups supplied with large arsenals of lightweight atom bombs.

However, U.S. military opponents of the plan argue that atomic bombs would be safer and more certain of delivery in U.S. hands; also that internal politics in some countries now allied with the west might throw them into the Communist camp, or secret information might leak to Russia.

Supporters of the bomb-sharing idea counter the objections with these suggestions:

Placing control of the bombs in the hands of an Atlantic atomic energy control organization. It would be patterned after that urged by the U.S. for the United Nations, but blocked by Russia.

Storing bombs allotted to North Atlantic Pact countries outside the European continent, but near enough for quick delivery. Britain and North Africa are mentioned as two possible repositories.

Storing bombs in pact countries, but with American personnel in actual charge of them.

Urging flood authority. NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—An over-all authority for flood emergency, to be established immediately, is "being" asked by Fraser Valley municipalities. The association moved Wednesday to ask Premier Johnson for such an authority to watch dikes until the 1950 crisis is over.

Red Cross Wants More Blood Gifts MONTREAL (CP)—The Red Cross today appealed for blood donations in order to have supplies of blood and plasma on hand in case of new disasters such as the Rimouski and Cabano fires or should the Manitoba floods "necessitate shipment of supplies for treatment of shock."

"The supply of blood and plasma is now low; we may need much more at any time," said Maj.-Gen. E. J. Renaud, chairman of the Quebec blood donor committee of the Red Cross.

"A donation involves only a few minutes of time and a small quantity of blood."

Big 3 Ministers Planning Moves To Win Cold War

LONDON (CP)—The Big Three foreign ministers met today to draft strategy they hope will keep the cold war from exploding into a shooting war.

In a speech Wednesday night to the Pilgrim Society, a body formed for the purpose of promoting Anglo-American friendship, Acheson called for the return of Germany to "the family of western civilization."

Members of Canada's delegation, here for next week's meetings of the foreign ministers of the 12 North Atlantic Pact countries, generally welcomed the French proposal. L. B. Pearson, Canadian Minister for External Affairs, said further study is necessary.

Nova Scotians Aid Winnipeg

HALIFAX (CP)—Red Cross officials called on Nova Scotians today to send hip boots, work gloves, socks and cigarettes to Winnipeg flood-fighters. The articles will be collected in Halifax and flown to Winnipeg by the R.C.A.F., which already has made several flood-relief flights.

GREENWICH, Conn. (UP)—The estranged wife of Henry Fonda cut off her actor husband without a nickel.

Frances Seymour Fonda committed suicide April 14. She left her $300,000 fortune to her mother and two children, Jayne and Peter Fonda. The will was made Oct. 8, a short time before Fonda, starring on Broadway in the play, "Mr. Roberts," announced his plans for a divorce.

13 Miners Killed, 23 More Trapped CHARLEROI, Belgium (Reuter)—Thirteen miners were killed today when coal gas exploded in the Marlemont-Bacoup coal mine near here. At least 23 more were reported trapped below the surface.

Three badly-injured men were rushed to hospital. Women and girls with tear-stained faces thronged the mine gates, waiting for news as rescue squads worked at maximum to reach the trapped men.

Mine officials said there was little hope for the miners trapped.

The blast, which occurred early today in a gallery more than 1,600 feet below ground level, was felt throughout the mine workings. Bulkheads of the disaster seam were closed to stave off other explosions.

Rescuers said three trapped miners were responding to their signals.

Weather Forecast Sunny today, cloudy overnight, sunny Friday. Little change in temperature. Light winds. Low tonight, 45; high tomorrow, 65.

Emergency Measures To Prevent Epidemic

By DON MACKAY

WINNIPEG, Man. (BUP)—Thousands of women and children jammed the railroad stations and remaining highways today, trying to escape Red River flood waters threatening Winnipeg with darkness, hunger and disease.

The men stayed behind to fight the flood which broke through another dike and inundated one-fifth of the city.

The army asked that 160,000 women and children evacuate the city, give the flood fighters more room to combat the ever-rising waters, and lessen the strain on essential services.

Troops guided the refugees in the largest mass movement of population in Canada's history. An estimated 30,000 will have quit the city by tonight or tomorrow. Many said they had no idea where they could go.

Packing what belongings they could in suitcases and shopping bags, the women and children crowded the Canadian National Railway station. Medical authorities inoculated as many as they could for typhoid.

ASKS MEN TO STAY Brig. R. A. E. Morton, flood control chief, said he wanted Winnipeg's population of 320,000 "thinned" to lessen the strain on the city's two remaining power stations. He asked all able-bodied men to stay behind to help the 20,000 organized flood fighters shore up two major dikes still protecting the provincial capital.

Medical officials warned that sewage backed up by deepening flood waters threatened the city with disease. Flood workers washed their hands in tubs of disinfectant after contact with river water.

Morton said he feared milk and food for babies might be held up. All bridges were closed to traffic and the central heating plant was down. Residents remaining behind were asked to take as few baths as possible and turn on lights only when necessary.

RETURN TO HOMES While the situation here worsened, most rain-swollen rivers in the midwestern United States receded and evacuees straggled home. At least 15 persons were dead and seven missing in Nebraska and Oklahoma, the hardest hit areas. Floods also caused damage to farm property in Minnesota, North Dakota and Iowa.

But their still was danger. Heavy rains were forecast for eastern and central Oklahoma and western Texas. Both the North Canadian and Des Moines rivers were rising to flood stage.

The water here was above the second floor level in some spots. Conditions were even worse through the rest of the province, the 65-mile valley area stretching from Emerson, Man., on the U.S. border south of Winnipeg. Royal Canadian Mounted Police said more than 8,000 had been evacuated from southern Manitoba and the section was almost deserted.

Jet Liner To London From Cairo 5½ Hours HATFIELD, Hertfordshire, Eng. (Reuter)—Britain's De Havilland Comet, the world's first jet airliner, today screamed across its home field here after spanning Europe non-stop from Cairo in a little more than five and one-half hours.

The sleek giant was home after 16 days of tropical tests in Africa, leaving behind it shattered records.

Test Pilot John (Cat's Eyes) Cunningham taxied the four-jet machine up to the strip five hours, 39 minutes and 21 seconds after leaving Cairo, 2,210 miles away. This put the average speed as 385.91 miles an hour.

Officials have indicated the Comet will be in regular service between London and the Middle East, Pakistan and Australia, probably next year—a year before contract requirements.

Warn Fire Survivors Of Danger At Cabano CABANO, Que. (CP)—To prevent an epidemic starting from polluted well waters in this devastated lumber town, Quebec health department authorities today issued emergency orders. Dr. Sario Sirois and Dr. Jean Marie Tremblay found that residents, deprived of their normal water services, were turning to old abandoned wells. The physicians warned that all water from stagnant wells should be boiled before drinking.

There are 1,500 homeless in this isolated community where the industrial section and 118 homes were reduced to ashes in a few hours Monday. With few resources of its own, the town of 3,200 is looking for outside help to rebuild.

Mayor Emile Morin told the Canadian Press he would appeal to Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Duplessis for housing assistance.

With immediate food and shelter services functioning smoothly, local Red Cross volunteers took over the job of running the organization set up by regular Red Cross staff.

In a statement, Mayor Morin said that the fire devastated the equivalent of two-thirds of the town, because the ruined section was the most concentrated and populous. Damage was estimated at $6,000,000.

There was no indication when electric power and water services would be restored.

Research Council Fired One Or Two, M.P.'s Told

'HOTTEST DAY OF YEAR' TALK PRESAGES DEBUT OF SUMMER

Cloudy skies Wednesday morning quickly dispelled into one of the warmest days of 1950, but from all indications, today's top mercury reading at the Gonzales Heights Meteorological Observatory will surpass Wednesday's.

With the mercury at 67 on Gonzales Hill, Wednesday and a day in April at the moment share the "hottest day of the year" record. But downtown it was probably the hottest day Wednesday with the temperature in the 70s.

Today's high temperature probably will reach 70 degrees, and the forecast maximum reading for Friday is 65 degrees. Wednesday's sunshine lasted for 10 hours and six minutes.

Contractors Sign Work Agreement With Unions

Pay For Construction Laborers, Teamsters Fixed To Stay Unchanged Next Two Years

The Victoria Building Industries Exchange, an organization comprised of 18 city contracting firms, has signed two new work agreements with trade unions.

The exchange Wednesday night came to terms with Local 1033, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union, and today signed a work contract with Local 885, General Teamsters' Union. Both are A.F.L.-T.L.C. affiliates.

Both agreements are to stand for two years.

Fear 22 Dead In U.S. Floods

OMAHA (AP)—Southeast Nebraska's flood toll stood at 22 today as searchers sought the bodies of the missing.

Early today, 13 bodies had been recovered. Nine persons, still unaccounted for, were presumed dead.

Most of the victims were travelers, trapped by water that rose with phenomenal speed after torrential rains and cascaded across the countryside with the force that swept cars and even a bus from the highways.

Two farmers found the body of Theodore Weiss, 34, Crete, Neb., railroad employee, in a fence. A mile away his car was found.

All Scientists Through Screen For Security

OTTAWA (BUP)—A government official revealed today that "one or two" foreign-born scientists had been discharged from the National Research Council for security reasons during the past two years.

F. T. Rosser, personnel officer of the council, made the statement in answer to questions from members of the National Research Committee.

His only indication of the number of scientists expelled was "one or two."

J. L. Gibson (Ind., Comox-Alberni) asked Rosser whether any of the 101 scientists who resigned from the Research Council in the past two years were allowed to leave the council because of security regulations.

"Yes," replied Rosser. "They would not appear on the record, though, as having been discharged. It would mainly be a case of not having their terms renewed once they expired, or came near expiration."

E. A. McCusker (Lib., Regina) asked whether the scientists were traced to any other government research laboratory following their departure from N.R.C.

"That isn't our business," Rosser replied.

"But there are other agencies of the government that make it their business?" asked McCusker, referring to the R.C.M.P. special detachment.

"Yes," replied Rosser. "I might say, in fairness," he added, "that no Canadian scientist has ever been discharged or allowed to leave the research council by not renewing his term, on grounds of security."

At the present time, Rosser said, there were 710 scientific employees of the Research Council. Of them, approximately 50 were foreign-born scientists working under post-doctorate schemes.

All N.R.C. employees were screened by the R.C.M.P., Rosser said.

SIMILKAMEEN RISES QUICKLY

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—The Similkameen River, which feeds the Okanagan River, rose 12 inches in the last 24 hours.

In normal years the Similkameen starts rising in February and gradually reaches a peak in May.

This year the run-off has hardly started.

Workers with bulldozers and dragline are trying to widen the river and dike the bank at Oroville, where the flood of 1948 caused heavy damage.

1st Evacuees From Winnipeg Arrive Here

Two mothers and five children arrived at Patricia Bay airport at 12:30 today, the first evacuees to Victoria from flood-ravaged Winnipeg.

They were: Mrs. Sidney Hechter, with her eight-month-old boy, Mark, and Mrs. Lubin Crystal, Mrs. Hechter's sister-in-law, with her two children, Maxine, 9, and Terry, 4, and Larry Robinson, 14, and his brother Errol, 8, sons of T.C.A. Capt. Charles R. Robinson, who traveled alone.

They are among hundreds of women and children streaming out of the prairie city where the Red River has risen 29 feet three inches and expected to go to 32 feet. T.C.A. has offered to fly out children of personnel free of charge as the city answers the call to evacuate women and children.

The heavy flooding is in the suburban districts, said Mrs. Crystal as she was met by her father, Ben Hechter, 248 Douglas Street. "Basements downtown are all flooded. Restaurants, shows and schools are closed."

Mrs. Hechter said many of her friends were flooded out of their homes and she told of canoes and rafts being used for transportation. At the time they left there was still plenty of food but there was fear for the milk supply and power.

Young Larry Robinson, who, with his brother Errol, was met by their grandmother, Mrs. F. H. Robinson, and aunt, Mrs. W. A. Robinson, of Victoria, had been packing sand bags for the past six days during any hour of the day or night.

"Our basement is filled with water and we've moved all our furniture to the top floor," he said.

Larry was living in the Kildonan district, a suburb of Winnipeg, where schools have been closed for some time, as many children as are able are helping to fight off the raging waters by aiding workers in piling and carrying bags of sand.

Fight Now To Save Winnipeg's Bridges

TO PROSECUTE ALL WHO FAIL TO PAY HOSPITAL PREMIUMS

Prosecutions are being started against persons who have failed to pay hospital insurance premiums, it was announced today by Lloyd Detwiler, hospital insurance commissioner.

"We are going right through the lists and every delinquent account will mean a prosecution," he said.

First court appearance in the insurance service's "we mean business" plan are expected this week or early next week.

41 MINERS KILLED AT MONS, BELGIUM

Few Others May Be Trapped in 700-Ft. Seam Disaster, Country's Worst Since The War

MONS, Belgium (BUP)—At least 41 miners were killed today by a coal mine explosion 1,650 feet below the surface. It was Belgium's worst mine accident since the war.

A mine spokesman said "two or three" others were reported missing and might have been trapped in a 700-foot tunnel, the deepest in the mine.

The blast wrecked elevators and machinery and sent deadly fumes billowing through the mine, located in the Trazeenges region along the French border.

A number of miners were injured seriously.

Three badly-injured men were rushed to hospital.

Women and girls with tear-stained faces thronged the mine gates, waiting for news as rescue squads worked at maximum to reach the trapped men.

Mine officials said there was little hope for the missing miners feared trapped.

The blast, which occurred early today in a gallery more than 1,600 feet below ground level, was felt throughout the mine workings. Bulkheads of the disaster seam were closed to stave off other explosions.

Old Age Pensions Plan Proposed To Ottawa By C.C.L.

OTTAWA (CP)—Basic, non-contributory old age pensions were proposed today by the Canadian Congress of Labor in a brief presented to the old age security joint committee of the Commons and Senate.

The 360,000-member labor organization suggested such pensions be granted "as a matter of right" and should be supplemented by a contributory pension scheme on a graduated basis.

The C.C.L. criticized the present pensionable age of 70 years, the amount of pensions now paid and the use of the means test. Listing 10 countries, it said only one other country, Norway, had the same retirement age as Canada. The others offered more social security provisions.

No Immediate Increase For Hospital Fees

Hospital insurance premiums may not be increased to the maximum $36 provided in legislation passed at the last session of the Legislature.

Lloyd Detwiler, hospital insurance commissioner, said today he is optimistic that the present $33 and $21 premiums for married couples and single persons will stand.

"We will know better in August, but at present time it looks as if we will not be forced to increase the premiums," he said.

Mr. Detwiler said the cost-of-living trend would be one of the determining factors and "by August we should have a better idea of how things will look."

Main factor will be hospital building plans of municipalities requiring provincial assistance, and they too should be finalized by mid-summer.

If the government was not required to make any further grants for hospital construction next year, the commissioner "felt the present premiums could stand."

Red Cross Wants More Blood Gifts

MONTREAL (CP)—The Red Cross today appealed for blood donations in order to have supplies of blood and plasma on hand in case of new disasters such as the Rimouski and Cabano fires or should the Manitoba floods "necessitate shipment of supplies for treatment of shock."

"The supply of blood and plasma is now low; we may need much more at any time," said Baj-Gen. E. J. Renaud, chairman of the Quebec blood donor committee of the Red Cross.

"A donation involves only a few minutes of time and a small quantity of blood."

Thousands Flee Threat Of Darkness And Disease

WINNIPEG (BUP)—The army fought "The Battle of the Bridges" today to keep main traffic arteries open to thousands of flood refugees who swarmed through this flooded road and rail centre.

Canadian National Railways reported it had lost its long fight to keep the line open with 540 square miles of flooded Red River Valley south of Winnipeg.

Canadian Pacific Railways maintained a last ditch shuttle service along the rim of the flood area in the south.

Thousands of women and children streamed from the city by every avenue of escape as Greater Winnipeg was threatened with darkness and disease.

The army prepared to evacuate the flood victims as far east and west as Toronto and Edmonton.

And navy stations at Saskatoon and Regina, Sask., and Port Arthur, Ont., were told to make arrangements to accommodate flood refugees.

ROOM IN BARRACKS

Western and Central Army commands were told to advise the Winnipeg authorities how many flood victims they could accommodate in barracks in their districts should the need arise.

With thousands of refugees taxing Winnipeg's road and rail lines, engineers gave top priority to "The Battle of the Bridges."

Half of the city's 12 main bridges were handling steady traffic due to round-the-clock diking. But several bridges were threatened as the Red, Seine and Assiniboine Rivers flooded even higher in the heart of the city.

The army designated the joint armed services program of emergency relief in the Manitoba flood area as "Operation Win-damp." The name was drawn from the rampaging Red River.

More than 200 C.P.R. and C.N.R. passenger cars, each capable of carrying 75 persons comfortably were rolling westward from Toronto and Montreal and were expected to arrive in Winnipeg tonight. The railways said the cars could carry many more than 75 persons in an emergency.

Four generators to supply emergency power for the Winnipeg area were being flown from Milwaukee, and other units with a total output of 500,000 watts will be flown in later.

MASS MOVEMENT

While the men stayed behind the army asked that 150,000 women and children evacuate the city, give the flood fighters more room to combat the ever-rising waters, and lessen the strain on essential services.

Troops guided the refugees in the largest mass movement of population in Canada's history. An estimated 30,000 will have quit the city by tonight or tomorrow. Many said they had no idea where they could go.

Packing what belongings they could in suitcases and shopping bags, the women and children crowded the Canadian National Railway station. Medical authorities inoculated as many as they could for typhoid.

Situation In Flooded City At A Glance

WINNIPEG (BUP)—The flood situation in Greater Winnipeg at a glance:

East Kildonan—A new dike has replaced the one which broke last night. Work is progressing on Heimsdale and the old dike to the corner of Henderson and Lay. The Henderson Highway culvert has been blocked off to prevent river water flowing through.

Assiniboine River—The river is overflowing between Lindsay and Borebank over Assiniboine Drive. The Osborne Bridge, danger of flooding. More diking taking place in order to give more protection to the bridge.

St. Vital—St. Mary's Road covered four feet of water, and impassable between Victoria to Crystal Avenue. From Berrydale south the road is impassable.

Howe Urges Graduates Be Leaders

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia's mushrooming campus was black with robes today as one of the largest graduating classes in the institution's history began the two-day ceremonies.

Today's graduates—968 applied science students of a total of 1,800 in all faculties—heard Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, trade minister, deliver a congregation address with an accent on engineering.

"Opportunities for young engineers," Mr. Howe said, "and for graduates generally, are as good or better than they were 40 years ago."

"I do think that Canadian industry, and the Canadian economy, with develop at a rate not less remarkable during the next quarter century than during the previous quarter century."

Mr. Howe was presented with an honorary degree along with Dr. F. E. Terman, dean of the school of engineering at Stanford University; H. R. MacMillan, B.C. industrialist; R. W. Diamond, president of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company; and Dr. J. H. Finlayson, retiring dean of applied science, U.B.C.

Tomorrow, M. E. Nichols, journalist and one of the founders of the Canadian Press, will be presented with an honorary degree as well as Marion Lindeburgh, director of the McGill School of Nursing.

Mr. Howe's hour-long address was delivered before more than 2,500 graduates, relatives and friends who jammed the university's bunting-covered armory.

Less Wheat Planted

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian farmers have indicated they intended to plant 27,202,400 acres to wheat this year, compared with 27,540,700 last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported this afternoon in a summary of 1950 acreage plans.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

SHAW AND DOLLARS

THAT IRREPRESSIBLE controversialist, George Bernard Shaw, has taken up the cudgels again, despite his 94 years, in a battle of wit—and wits—with another British humorist, Sir Alan P. Herbert, the former M.P. This time, it is over the naming of the site for the new home of the 1951 Festival of Britain.

These exhibition buildings are to be placed on the south bank of the Thames, between County Hall and Waterloo Bridge, opposite Charing Cross and the Strand, a section which, as Londoners and ex-Londoners know, was unbelievably dingy and uninteresting, despite its history as a famous artistic quarter in Elizabethan days.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

WITH ITS NEW destiny in view, public opinion seemed to think the area should be given a new name, more in conformity with the splendor of the exhibition grounds that are now beginning to take shape. Sir Alan started the idea and the controversy with a letter to The London Times—where so many controversies have been born, by the way.

His suggestion that the new name be Waterloo Shore was quickly followed by others, among them being Shot Tower quickly followed by others, among them being Shot Tower make out, as I imagine very few maidens ever reach that part of the Thames—Shakespeare Shore and Elizabeth Embankment.

G.B.S. AROUSED

TO ALL OF THOSE, Shaw gave his typically contemptuous "Pshaw!" and demanded that the south bank be called the South Bank—nothing more and nothing less. Why? Because it was the most obvious, the most simple and would result in the saving of countless millions in saved manpower when it came to printing, writing or typing the name, he claimed.

When that met with a typical Herbert rebuttal in the shape of the valuable time wasted with Mr. Shaw's own three personal names, G.B.S. promptly reneged on his South Bank argument by writing The Times: "May I ask Sir Alan Herbert for his estimate of the valuable working time he saves by spelling his Christian name with one 's' instead of two?"

SECRET OF LONGEVITY?

NO DOUBT, the secret of Shaw's amazing mental and physical health is attributable to his active interest in just such happenings and the Irish spirit which makes him gird on his weapon of wit whenever the opportunity presents itself. At the same time, it may be that some of it is due to his having attained "social security" to an extent seldom attained by a writer—and a nonagenarian at that!

This, at least, was the conclusion I reached after reading in an American newspaper that every week approximately $4,500 passes from the offices of New York producers to the sage of Aylot St. Lawrence, and then, in large part, to the coffers of Great Britain.

CURRENT HITS

THAT MONEY represents the royalties from two Broadway hits written by G.B.S. more than 50 years ago. They are "The Devil's Disciple" and "Caesar and Cleopatra." Shaw wrote "The Devil's Disciple" in 1897. It was the original American production by Richard Mansfield that same year that gave the then impecunious Shaw the money on which to get married.

When London first saw "Caesar and Cleopatra," which he wrote in 1898, it was a failure and the critics called it "opera bouffe." But Shaw predicted that by 1920 the British would consider it a masterpiece. They did—in 1913—and it has been popular ever since.

WOULD TAKE ALL

OTHER PLAYS of his which have stood the test of time are "Pygmalion" and "Man and Superman." And it is interesting to note that when Maurice Evans revived the latter in New York some time ago, the royalties were so heavy that Shaw had to call a halt to plans for further productions of his plays that season, or he would have been placed in such a high tax bracket that the British Chancellor of the Exchequer would have taken it all.

So laugh as one may at G.B.S. for his idiosyncrasies and his Irishisms, his irascibility and his invincible ego, one must recognize that those are among the very attributes which have enabled that 94-year-old scholar and sage to earn such material help for his country in her hour of need.

Victoria Pianist Will Play At Choir Recital Wednesday

Canada's oldest established male choir, the Arion Male Voice Choir, will present its 132nd regular concert next Wednesday evening at Victoria High School auditorium at 8.30.

Guest artist will be the young Victoria pianist, Miss Sheila Bates, who won honors in the Greater Victoria Musical Festival Wednesday.

Miss Bates' selections include: "Pastorale and Capriccio" (Scharlatti-Tausig), "Organ Prelude and Fugue" (Bach-Liszt), "Ballade in G Minor" (Brahms), "May Night" (Palmgren), and "The Prince" (Bridge).

D.V.A. Hospital Visited By 1,000

Open house at the Veterans' Hospital Wednesday drew far more visitors than expected, according to administrative officer E. G. Drage.

Held between 2 and 4 in the afternoon, the annual open house day attracted nearly 1,000 visitors.

Patients heard the H.M.C.S. Naden band which presented a lively concert of band music on the lawn outside the hospital.

The visitors were shown the new gastroscope purchased for the hospital last year by the Women's Auxiliary; laboratories and operating rooms.

COMPETITIVE VALUE

Six Major Awards Given Festival Contestants

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

The first evening session and official opening of the new Greater Victoria Musical Festival, Wednesday night, was marked by the presentation of six major awards to some of the day's successful competitors.

This was all the more significant in that the ceremony had been missing lately after the former festival was made non-competitive. Mayor Percy George, making the opening address and welcoming the visiting adjudicators, underlined the value of the competitive angle. The session was held in First United Church.

Adjudicators Byron Nichols and Lawrence Cludera made the awards, aided by J. F. K. English, president of the festival committee. The Willis Piano Co. trophy for duo piano went to Muriel and Vivian Trimble who topped their class with a marking of 87. The J. Ingram Smith cup for the best junior school orchestra was won by Victoria High School, who were awarded 80 marks in their class.

United Commercial Travelers' shield for the best junior band went to the Greater Victoria Schools Band (City Group) with a marking of 162. First United Church Ladies' Choir took the Elgar trophy with 176 marks. Finals of the Senior Bach Piano-forte class resulted in the Harold Samuel Plate going to Sheila Bates with a mark of 88. Runner-up was Doreen Collie with 84.

Colorful Event Opens Season At Yacht Club

With summer apparently here at last, one of the season's most colorful events promises to be an impressive sight Saturday.

At 2.30 that afternoon, sailing and power boats of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club will officially open 1950 activities with the annual sail-past Cherie, auxiliary cruiser owned by Dr. R. J. Wride, club commodore. The sailing fleet, comprising snipes, stars, lightnings and auxiliary cruisers, will be led by honorary commodore A. D. Creasey, followed by flag officers in order of their seniority. The power boat squadron will follow the sailing craft.

The boats will be appropriately "dressed" with flags and bunting for the event.

A number of snipes from the recently formed R.C.N. Yacht Club will participate in the program, including the first races of the season.

Tentative Date Set For Langford Fair

LANGFORD—Date for the annual Langford Community Fair was tentatively set by a meeting here for Aug. 16. Ernest F. Le Queune was elected chairman of the fair committee.

Representatives of local organizations on the fair committee are as follows: Lorne Rodgers, Mrs. J. E. Glenn, Mrs. J. B. Bell, Clarence Wilson, E. F. Le Queune, H. M. McKenzie, James Massie, A. F. Bayles, R. J. Eveleigh and Miss L. M. Savory.

Vandals Run Wild At Parks, Beaches

Smashed Picnic Tables, Windows, Other Damage Creates Problem

Vandalism has reared its ugly head as a matter of prime concern to the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee.

Wednesday, the joint municipal committee made its annual tour of bathing beaches, picnic grounds and parks which it maintains. Almost everywhere, committee men found equipment provided for public convenience in former years either destroyed or considerably damaged.

At Mount Douglas Park, picnic tables were found overturned and smashed.

At Cordova Bay Beach, every window in dressing rooms for swimmers were found to be broken.

At Elk Lake, comfort stations were found to be defaced with crude words scribbled on the walls and initials carved into doors and other woodwork.

With an annual budget limited to $4,400 to maintain roughly about 2,000 acres of parkland, the committee in charge cannot afford much for new development when each year it is faced with heavy replacement and repair bills.

Committee members making the tour Wednesday said they would once again appeal for co-operation from the public in stamping out vandalism; at the same time, urging service clubs and other public-minded organizations to aid in development of parks and provision of new park equipment.

Park Lands Joined On Alberni Road

B.C. park lands are 830 acres larger.

The E. & N. Railway has granted the provincial parks division a strip of property of this acreage which will link McMillan Park and Little Qualicum Park along the Alberni Highway.

The two areas joined, together with the linking property, total 1,500 acres.

The new section probably will be named for the E. & N.

It is hoped to obtain 2,000 acres more in the area, which would bring Mount Arrowsmith and some fine skiing country into the park land. This acreage is owned partly by the E. & N. and partly by H. R. McMillan.

D.V.A. Official Here Saturday

The bilingual assistant deputy minister of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, George Lucien Lalonde, will be in the city Saturday to tour D.V.A. offices and the Veterans' Hospital.

Lt. Col. Lalonde, O.B.E., E.D., rose from the ranks to appointment in the field as commanding officer of the famous Montreal Regiment de Maisonneuve during the northwest European campaign.

Following his discharge, Mr. Lalonde resumed his law practice in Montreal, where he took an active interest in veterans' re-establishment. At the Dominion convention of the Canadian Legion in 1948 he was elected vice-chairman of the Dominion Command.

Study Three Estimates On Dallas Seawall

City Council Tuesday opened tenders in respect to completing repairs to the Dallas Road seawall.

Two contract bids and an estimate from the city's own engineering department were considered.

Contractor G. H. Wheaton offered to complete wall repairs for $85,750. Dawson and Hall Limited set the price at $89,408.

The city engineering department estimated city workmen could do the work at a cost of $72,639.

The three estimates were referred to council's works committee.

City Electricians Win 7½ Per Cent Pay Boost

Fourteen union electricians employed by the Victoria street lighting department decided at a last-minute meeting Wednesday night to forego a strike vote and to come to terms with the city by withdrawing a demand for a reduction in their probationary period.

Action by the men followed decision by City Council Tuesday to agree to union compromise terms concerning wages.

The union originally sought a 14-per-cent across-the-board for its members but later offered to settle for a 7½-per-cent pay boost if the city agreed to pay its linemen an additional 10 per cent when the men were required to do cable work.

When the city agreed to this, only point remaining at issue was an union demand to have the present 60-day probationary period cut in half. The city on this point took a definite stand that no reduction would be allowed.

The union Wednesday agreed to withdraw this demand in order to effect a settlement.

The 7½-per-cent pay boost won by the union will boost journeyman linemen's monthly pay from $242.50 to $260.69. According to union officials, this is well below the rate paid electricians in Vancouver.

Car Bowled Over In City Collision

A car driven by Alvin Knight, 1019 Caledonia Avenue, was bowled over when it was in collision with another driven by Mary V. Webb, 1401 Taunton Street, at Belmont and Gladstone Avenues Wednesday afternoon, city police report. No one was hurt. Nearly $200 damage was done to the Knight car.

U.S. May Provide Allies A-Bombs

Military Leaders Studying Plan To Build Defence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Military officials are considering the idea that the United States should arm its North Atlantic allies with atomic bombs.

Discussions are in the preliminary stage, and the military authorities are still far from a recommendation on which President Truman might base the idea of placing atomic bombs within reach of Britain.

Jet Liner To London From Cairo 5½ Hours

HATFIELD, Hertfordshire, Eng. (Reuter)—Britain's De Havilland Comet, the world's first jet airliner, today screamed across its home field here after spanning Europe non-stop from Cairo in a little more than five and one-half hours.

The sleek giant was home after 16 days of tropical tests in Africa, leaving behind it shattered records.

Test Pilot John (Cat's Eyes) Cunningham taxied the four-jet machine up to the strip five hours, 39 minutes and 21 seconds after leaving Cairo, 2,210 miles away. This put the average speed at 385.91 miles an hour.

Officials have indicated the Comet will be in regular service between London and the Middle East, Pakistan and Australia, probably next year—a year before contract requirements.

France and other allies is being explored thoroughly, however, and military arguments are developing both for and against it. Advocates contend that some way must be found to arm western Europe faster and cheaper than is possible with conventional weapons.

IN TWO YEARS They argue that the job must be done in two years, the earliest time by which it is estimated Russia may have a stockpile of atomic bombs adequate for a major blow in an atomic war.

The proposal for A-bomb sharing, friends of the proposal say, calls for a revolutionary concept of western defence. In brief this concept calls for replacing many expensive ground troops in Europe with bombing groups supplied with large arsenals of lightweight atom bombs.

However, U.S. military opponents of the plan argue that atomic bombs would be safer and more certain of delivery in U.S. hands; also that internal politics in some countries now allied with the west might throw them into the Communist camp, or secret information might leak to Russia.

Nova Scotians Aid Winnipeg

U.S. Industry Already Feels Strike Effect

CHICAGO (AP)—A strike by railroad firemen against four major rail systems threatened sharp cuts today in many segments of industries in the United States.

Prospects of an early settlement appeared dim. The walkout, which started Wednesday, directly involved only 18,000 firemen. But as many as 200,000 other rail workers may be made idle. Countless other thousands are expected to be made idle by a long strike.

Canadian rail workers were not affected by the walkout. Some U.S. coal mines were among the first to feel the effect of the strike called by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

One-third of the country's rail passengers and one-fifth of the rail freight movement was disrupted.

Quits As Chief Of Leewards

LONDON (Reuter)—The Colonial Office announced today that Earl Baldwin of Bewdley, 51-year-old governor and commander-in-chief of the Leeward Islands, has resigned the post for "health and personal reasons."

He will be succeeded by K. W. Blackburne, 43, director of information at the Colonial Office since 1947.

London observers recalled that the Socialist son of Britain's pre-war Conservative Prime Minister, the late Earl Stanley Baldwin, had been reported since his appointment in February, 1948, to have differed from the government on policy regarding development of the West Indies colony.

Big 3 Ministers Studying Steps To Win Cold War

Britain May Back Scheme Of France To Pool Much Of Europe's Coal, Steel

LONDON (CP)—The three big western powers today opened cold-war-policy talks amid signs that Britain was warming up to France's plan to pool much of Europe's coal and steel resources.

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States already has given his "sympathy and approval" to the idea behind Foreign Minister Robert Schuman's proposal.

A British foreign office spokesman regarded Schuman's proposal as most important. He said Britain long had been anxious to find a solution to the age-long feud between Germany and France. The plan is intended to do just that.

Acheson, Schuman and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin met for two hours at Lancaster House to plan their global strategy to stem the spread of communism and at the same time keep the cold war from flaring into a hot one. They were expected to consider the French coal-and-steel plan.

With an appeal from State Secretary Acheson to sacrifice some national interests to avoid war, the ministers seek agreement on plans to wrest initiative from the east-west conflict from the Russians.

Almost three weeks of intensive preparation by ambassadors and experts preceded today's meeting.

While those talks were variously described as "useful" and "satisfactory," the major hope of success comes from the dramatically sudden French proposal.

U.S. Deficit Spending Seen As Great Error

NEW YORK (UP)—Elder statesman Bernard Baruch said today the Truman administration's deficit spending ultimately will make the people slaves of the government and wreck the country.

In a blistering speech on the "Fair Deal" program, he said too much government is the "greatest threat" in existence to American freedom.

Wherever Communism has risen to power the value of money was wrecked first, to keep the people enslaved through perpetual inflation, he said.

"Nothing quite so bad has happened here—yet," Baruch said. "If American fiscal policy becomes a perpetual inflation machine—as 'deficit financing' would make it—the result must be to 'enslave us to the government.'"

Baruch addressed 1,400 students and faculty members at the school of business and civic administration of the City College of New York, from which he graduated 65 years ago.

"The way to protect human rights is not to socialize them," Baruch said. "The chief threat to human rights is no longer one of too much government, that all limits to government action may be swept away."

Ever expanding government activity must be brought under the restraints of the highest moral laws, he added, lest it wreck our society.

He defined this morality as good intentions with a strong backbone of self-discipline. Throughout his speech Baruch dwelt on the "false gospel of security through deficit financing." Rather, he said, the first bulwark of security is individual savings and inflation is its worst enemy.

TRIAL POSTPONED

Trial of Albert E. Wale, 638 Island Highway, on a charge of careless driving, was postponed to June 12 by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today. He has pleaded not guilty. Long remand was given because an injured person will not be out of hospital for several weeks, C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, reported.

FEAR WELL POLLUTION

Warn Fire Survivors Of Danger At Cabano

CABANO, Que. (CP)—To prevent an epidemic starting from polluted well waters in this devastated lumber town, Quebec health department authorities today issued emergency orders.

Dr. Sarto Sirols and Dr. Jean Marie Tremblay found that residents, deprived of their normal water services, were turning to old abandoned wells. The physicians warned that all water from stagnant wells should be boiled before drinking.

There are 1,500 homeless in this isolated community where the industrial section and 118 homes were reduced to ashes in a few hours Monday. With few resources of its own, the town of 3,200 is looking for outside help to rebuild.

Mayor Emile Morin told the Canadian Press he would appeal to Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Duplessis for housing assistance.

With immediate food and shelter services functioning smoothly, local Red Cross volunteers took over the job of running the organization set up by regular Red Cross staff.

In a statement, Mayor Morin said that the fire devastated the equivalent of two-thirds of the town, because the ruined section was the most concentrated and populous. Damage was estimated at $6,000,000.

There was no indication when electric power and water services would be restored.

Huge army tents set up on grounds near the church serve as a centre where some 1,200 persons sit down to hot meals three times a day. The meals are cooked by 10 lumber camp cooks.

Everybody Pays The Strike Bill

SETTLEMENT OF THE STRIKE OF Evans, Coleman & Johnson Ltd. employees on terms substantially the same as the firm's last pre-strike offer to its men has left labor here with some serious thinking ahead of it. The outcome, costly to employers and employees as well as to a large section of the non-participating general public, has once again proved the strike to be an obsolete weapon. Everyone concerned has lost financially. Furthermore, those workers made idle by secondary developments have only the melancholy memory of weeks without pay to remind them of their involvement. Contractors, on the other hand, have before them the bills for overhead which continued to roll in though income ceased.

Talk of workers recouping their losses through overtime necessitated by delays in construction does not alter the fact that for a specific period they lost their wages. Should the expected volume of overtime fail to materialize, they will be made more acutely aware of the debt made in savings and the mortgage placed on future earnings.

These are inevitable consequences of a strike. They must raise a question in employers' and employees' minds about the efficacy of strikes themselves. The effects become more easily apparent, moreover, when little effort is expended on the face-saving devices used on other occasions to soothe the ruffled feelings of participants.

Few employers in this day and age are inclined to ignore responsibilities to their workmen. They are justified, on the other hand, in expecting a fair profit from their efforts. They are in business for profits. If it were not for the return they receive from specific projects, there would be little incentive for them to remain in that line of activity. That is the basis on which our system of development stands. It may not be perfect—perfection can scarcely be expected where the human element is a factor. But it is a system which has given this continent the highest material standard of living in the world. There have been instances here and in the United States where refusal on the part of unions to recognize these facts led employers to go out of business. That has left their employees with no work and no pay cheque. Under these circumstances—and in view of the points graphically illustrated in the recent strike here— isn't it time for labor and management to enjoy a new set of relations? On the basis of a theory held in an earlier age, labor might say of the present instance that it has lost a battle but that the war will still go on. If that attitude is adopted, the war can be resumed and more and more people can be seriously hurt. Industry can be brought to a standstill, and the standard of living can be depressed.

It is not war that the public wants. It is peace. Labor, no less than management, should appreciate that fact. The road ahead should be one in which every effort should be expended to increase harmony. Labor and management are partners in production, not rivals. The objective of peaceful advance should not be too hard to attain.

The public is at a loss to understand why progress is impeded by such agencies as picket lines thrown around a project on which there is no dispute between labor and management. Secondary or sympathy strikes scarcely prove any point unless it is union solidarity. There may be strong arguments for that solidarity provided it is genuine. But it can be genuine only if it reflects the position of all, or the majority of workers in a union. Unions have within them the machinery of democratic operation. They cease to be democratic, however, when a large proportion of the membership fails to take an interest in, or an active part in the formulation of policy. When that function is left to a small executive by members who buy cards in order to get work, but who stay away from meetings, the democratic process falls down.

Victoria and the rest of Canada can look forward to expansion and prosperity through well co-ordinated production, or the city and country can move into an era of more strikes and disruption. The results of the latter are not difficult to forecast. Industrial strife, the product of refusal to recognize responsibilities, can push us back to a point where the living standards of today become nothing but a fond memory.

Fight It Our Own Way

THE AVERAGE CANADIAN, NO matter how much he or she may abhor Communism, will rest content with the decision of the Canadian House of Commons not to outlaw the Communist Party. Although Australia, for instance, has gone ahead with legislation to ban the Marxist organization, there are many arguments against the invocation of such measures.

It is true that considerable trouble could be avoided by making it a crime to espouse Communist doctrines. The persistent propaganda of Mr. Tim Buck and his followers would be stifled, the weaker minds among us would be freed from the danger of open contact with advocates of Russia's brand of imperialism. But even greater troubles might be encountered. Driven underground—an avenue they would undoubtedly take—Communists in Canada could become even more of a nuisance than they now are. Their appeal for some would be enhanced, they would take on an aura of excitement and illegal adventure, they might assume in part the mantle of martyrs—well-meaning "victims" of capitalism's "heavy hand." But an even greater objection would lie in the Canadian attitude to freedom—that apart from libel, treason or obscenity a citizen should have the right to champion his political beliefs in public.

It is the paradox of freedom that it must provide equal rights for those who serve it and those who would overthrow it with totalitarian forms of government. Once inaugurated, the principle of the law banning Communism might be extended to other movements. It would be dangerous to our democratic institutions to fight Communism with Communism's weapons. There are better methods—by showing that our way of life is superior, so that only the paid dupes, the malcontents and lunatic fringe can fall to see it.

A Necessary Expenditure

THE ADDITION OF SOME 500 BEDS to the hospital accommodation in this province, provided for in plans now being completed for nine different areas, will bring a much needed extension of facilities. Taken in conjunction with another 700 beds recently or in process of being added to existing hospitals the new construction will help to relieve services seriously overtaxed. Population increases in many sections of British Columbia as well as the greater use of hospitals as a result of the insurance plan had created a critical situation for many needing in-patient care. That situation will not be entirely relieved by the current program of new construction, announced yesterday, but it will be aided. Patients are still being given temporary quarters for lack of regular accommodation; operations of a non-emergency character are being postponed in many cases until beds are available. The cost of meeting such a need, of course, is great. The present work—providing space for 500 beds at a cost of $5,200,000—represents an expenditure of more than $10,000 per bed, with accompanying facilities such as administrative offices, kitchen and laboratories. We are being brought face to face with the fact that expensive modern technical equipment and the buildings to house it constitute an important part of our public and private financing. In meeting the need we must show an equal readiness to meet the bills.

Swedish Labor Courts Reduce Strike Loss As Judgments Keep Industry On Even Keel

By ROBSON BLACK, from Stockholm

SWEDEN'S Labor Court stands unique as a mechanism to cut strike losses and to maintain the unity of labor and management. It deals only with interpretations of collective agreements and is in no sense a wage-fixing body. Of its seven members, two are union appointees, two come from the employers' association, one member must be a social science expert, and the chairman and one other are usually chosen from the judiciary.

UNANIMOUS DECISIONS

During the last two years, 150 decisions have been given by the courts. About two-thirds of these have been unanimous, meaning that the judges selected from the employers repeatedly condemned the corporate litigants from whom they draw their monthly salaries, while similarly the labor men again and again came down against their own union colleagues. In 1948, only 11 cases were subject to dissenting minority reports.

Not only are the Labor Court's decisions final, and completely free of political influence at all stages, but the tribunal has authority to impose substantial penalties. In one instance, a small manufacturer dismissed an employee for persistent absence from duty. Sixty fellow workers called a sympathy strike in protest. At the end of two weeks, the employer placed his case before the Labor Court and asked damages. Two days after the hearing opened, a unanimous judgment was scored against the union and the strike collapsed. By terms of the decision, involving the full assent of the labor members of the court, the union of the strikers was fined $1,500 and the individual strikers $55 each. The whole collection was turned over to the employer as compensation.

Should a judgment go against a well-to-do corporation, the indemnity may run to a large sum, indicative of the court's determination to make breaches of collective agreements as expensive as possible. Should a company go so far as to declare a lockout against its men during the term of a mutual contract, the court has power to make the employer pay the entire wage-loss during the period of hostilities.

As a natural consequence, Labor Court submissions are steadily declining year by year as the published volumes of

Playing Safe

By ROBERT STEPHENS, from Paris

THE French Cabinet has decided to remove Professor Joliot-Curie, France's leading nuclear physicist, Nobel Prize winner and prominent Communist from his post as High Commissioner for Atomic Energy. He has also been deprived of his membership of the Committee on Scientific Research.

A government spokesman said after the Cabinet meeting that whatever the scientific merits of Professor Joliot-Curie his public declarations and his acceptance, without reserve, of the resolution voted by the recent Communist Congress at Gennevilliers made his maintenance in the post of High Commissioner for Atomic Energy impossible.

So ends one of the most strangely paradoxical situations of French public life, a situation which has caused the French Government a good deal of embarrassment in regard to its Allies.

WHILE France has been forging ever-closer military links with her Western Allies, first in Western Union and then in the Atlantic Pact, the direction of her atomic energy program has been in the hands of one of the leading figures of the Communist Party, which has been conducting a violent campaign against all collaboration with the West, and against any measures designed to strengthen French national defence against possible Russian aggression.

An inevitable result has been that France has had no share in the exchange of atomic energy secrets between Britain and America though the French have in principle conducted their atomic researches in the open.

The removal of Joliot-Curie is expected to be followed eventually by further dismissals in the French Atomic Energy staff, of whom as many as 20 per cent are said to be Communist sympathizers. Agitation for the removal of Professor Joliot-Curie has been going on for over a year. It began to be serious after the Communists launched their campaign against Western Union and the Atlantic Pact, and when Communist leaders publicly declared that they would not fight against the Red Army if it entered France.

Soon after these declarations Professor Joliot-Curie told a press luncheon here in January last: "A French Communist, like any other French citizen occupying a post confided to him by the government, cannot honestly think of communicating to any foreign power whatsoever results which do not belong to him but belong to the collectivity which has permitted him to work. Every Communist is perfectly aware of the necessity of such behaviour."

THIS declaration was said to have earned Joliot-Curie considerable criticism in Communist circles, but it appeared to have a reassuring effect as far as the government was concerned. For in view of his great national reputation, the extreme improbability of his actually passing on atomic secrets to the Russians, and the very delicate situation with the Communists at the time, the government was very reluctant to remove him.

At the recent Communist national congress at Gennevilliers on April 5, Professor Joliot-Curie went further, however, and said that "progressive and Communist scientists will never give a particle of their knowledge in order to make war against the Soviet Union." As a result of this Congress, the government was further pressed by both Gaullists and Socialists in the National Assembly to reconsider its attitude towards Joliot-Curie.

THE recent decision, which came as rather a surprise, is believed to have been taken partly to show that the government is in earnest in its proclaimed intentions of making fuller use of legal methods to restrain Communist activity. In this respect the position of Joliot-Curie has been regarded by many as a test case. But the decision may also be regarded as a step which could not further be postponed if the closer association in the Atlantic Union, sought by the French, is to become a reality.

BEER PARLORS

I have read in the papers about certain people protesting against beer but they don't realize that there are so many out of work and hardly any work to be got. I don't see why the Citizens' Association should be against it. I think it would be for the good of the working-man who is trying to make a living.

I am a tea-totaller myself but I think if we vote in favor of beer by the glass we will bring a lot of work to those that are out of work today and it will cut the unemployed list at least 65%. So why don't the Citizens' Association think a little more and realize that they will be keeping the unemployed up instead of down. So I say vote "Yes" in favor of beer by the glass under government regulation.

FRANCO AND SPAIN

Your editorial comments on the above subject must be a source of satisfaction to every Communist who reads them. Catholics might be excused for wondering whether they were inspired by Moscow, and if the policy of the Times was to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds. This of course I should be most loath to believe.

However, why not advise your leader writer to get a little education on "Spain." For instance look up the Quarterly Review, he can see it in the public library, read what a press correspondent of a leading world paper has to say, "read, mark, learn and inwardly digest."

There are other sources of information for a newspaper man than the discarded rubbish of foreign garbage cans. One may be pardoned for wondering when reading the rehearsed blatherings of hysterical neighboring countries whether Canada is, as is so loudly proclaimed, really an independent country, or just a crawling satellite with no mind of her own.

MOTHER'S DAY FOUNDER

How many people in this world today know that Miss Emma Jarvis, the lonely spinster of Philadelphia who founded Mother's Day in 1907 and then vigorously fought in vain against its commercialization, died a few years ago blind and penniless.

Personally I think in honor to Miss Jarvis all governments should stop all this commercialization at once.

How many mothers are there today living alone who would like a son to do a few chores for her, such as taking in the wood or splitting it without her asking for it to be done. There are lots of little things many a mother should have done for her.

Just at Easter I overheard two young women buying cards say, "Well that's done, the next thing will be Mother's Day." From the sound of their voices it was evident they did not agree with this commercialization. I agreed with them though they did not know I heard them. Mother's Day should not be once a year with a forced buying of a card. It should be a job done once in a while for mother, something the storekeeper cannot sell. A something a child or person does not want to do but in duty bound should do for a mother. Something a mother needs done once in a while and which she is not strong enough to do for herself.

That is what I would call a real Mother's Day gift.

SOCIAL SECURITY TAX

With reference to the above tax, and in the interests of democracy, would greatly appreciate your publishing the contents of this letter in your paper.

The Social Security Tax, together with other undemocratic provincial taxes, has already seriously affected the business interests and citizens of British Columbia.

Unless the government takes over all business, the people of this province cannot continue to operate economically, and support as we are now doing, a huge body of non-producing government officials.

It is a matter of opinion whether the gradual adoption of the above step could be considered communist or bureaucratic. The methods of both are similar. At present, the major difference lies only in the degree of encroachment by the province on the democratic rights of its citizens.

COMMON OWNERSHIP

Perhaps a very brief letter in reply to that of Mr. Alan Leslie Greig in the Times of Monday last may be allowed in view of what is taking place in Canada at the moment. Mr. Greig states that: "Communism tipped in the balance and found wanting is rejectable." But here in Canada communism is meeting the need and demand of the fire sufferers in stricken Rimouski, it is doing all possible in Manitoba where help is being given from nearly all sections and provinces of Canada. It came freely and staunchly to the aid of B.C. in 1948 when we had our own flood, and in every case of dire need the principle of common ownership has never been slow to act where Canadian citizenship felt there was just cause for asking assistance.

And we will see more of this principle of coming to the assistance of those deserving in the case of the incurables mentioned in the letter of Eva Warren immediately under that of Mr. Greig and in the same column. Certainly common ownership, under any name chosen, will gladly come to the assistance of any needy Canadian. And this writer is proud to trust Canadian citizenship not to reject in any deserving case the broad principles of common ownership distribution of commonly owned wealth to Canadians.

WORTH A TRY

Montreal Star

One worthy worrier on the subject of what shall we do with the "Douks," has suggested, since Canada obviously cannot deport them as nobody else wants them, that they be shipped bag and baggage (of which they will need plenty) to say, Satellite Bay or Land's End on Prince Patrick Island; or Cornwallis Island; or to any one of the countless blocks of ice which form our northern border. Perhaps a year or two of hard labor at trying to keep warm might temper their fanaticism. We say "might"—but could be worth a try.

We must never lose sight of the fundamental principle that local responsibility, fully realized, makes for sound government and healthy law enforcement.—U.S. Attorney General J. Howard McGrath.

ONLY a great threat like the cold war could have brought about such amazing gestures of peace as are being exchanged between once bitter enemies like France and Germany.

France has proposed the pooling of Europe's vital coal and steel industries under a common authority as a move towards peace and prosperity. This project—approved by the cabinet and announced by Foreign Minister Robert Schuman—would include the joining of France's output in the rich Saar and Lorraine regions with that of Germany's industrially famous Ruhr valley.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany has greeted this proposition as "a magnanimous step of the greatest possible significance," adding:

"It appears to me that this creates the pre-conditions for making any future conflict between France and Germany impossible."

The French proposal could have far-reaching results if it develops favorably. The features of Franco-German amity are the most surprising element, but this is only one aspect of a general economic development involving the whole of western Europe.

Success of the project is calculated to mean great things for the economic rehabilitation of Europe. And economic rehabilitation is essential to military preparedness for defence.

In this connection the United States is said to support the idea of German participation in the economic and political fields but not in the military. That probably will present the views of the other western European countries. France, in particular, has been fearful of German rearmament, and this feeling is shared by Britain and lesser states.

However, from the economic viewpoint there is widespread agreement that the rehabilitation of Germany is essential to the recovery of the rest of Europe. In London this thought is tempered somewhat by the fear that a combination of German and French heavy industries might deprive Britain of her dominant place in the European steel business.

PLEASANT THOUGHTS

New York Times

One is either born to climb mountains or one is not. A man's heart may be in the highlands, but that alone will not make him a mountain-climber; a man may be homesick for the sight of mountains he has never climbed. Most of us are merely armchair mountain-climbers, not born to leap from crag to crag but agreeing that mountain-climbing is a fine thing—if someone else does the climbing and brings the mountain to us, neatly wrapped in a book.

TRIAL BY JURY

Montreal Gazette

The general membership of the Bar has declared itself as upholding the right of resort to jury trials in civil cases, regardless of how infrequently it may be used and despite the difficulty of some juries in following involved, technical evidence. Whether largely used or not, the fundamental right of taking one's case to a panel of ordinary fellow citizens is an integral foundation of the democratic system of justice. It is to be hoped the sound view of the Montreal Bar members will be respected.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"YOU can get," said the Elevator Man, "too much of a good thing. Killing with kindness may be pleasant, but it's still killing. And whether you die of laughter or of sorrow, the end result is pretty much the same. Lots of people would like most to have what gets pretty horrible if we got nothing else. You might be pining for a trip, for instance. You might give a lot for the chance of a few weeks' travel. But if you were doomed to spend the rest of your life moving from place to place you'd likely get pretty tired of it. It's probably just as well we don't get everything we want in the quantities we sometimes think we want it. Going down!"

"Take," said the Elevator Man, "that Communist leader in Portugal. When he first got thrown into jail he no doubt thought the meals were pretty good. Chicken soup and fried chicken for lunch; steak and fried eggs for dinner. He got the same thing the next day—and the next—and the next. When he finally got into court seven months later he charged the police with cruelty. 'This became a daily torture,' he complained, 'nobody could stand the same food every day.' I think he had something there. I wonder how chocolate cake three times a day for a month would taste? You remember that old prayer—'Lord preserve us from our friends'? You might also add—and from our favorite foods.' Main floor!"

"A good many people," said the Elevator Man, "apparently figure that Heaven is a place where you'll get all you want of what you want. But they're going to be pretty disappointed if they're right. You can become immunized to pleasure just as you can to smallpox or diphtheria by getting more of it than you can handle. Bread and water once in a while will make the fried chicken taste all the better."

Need Plenty Of Greens For Health In Winter

By JACK G. BEASTALL

If there is any person in this world who has to keep ahead of the times it certainly is the home gardener.

No sooner has the weather cleared and the spring flowers come into full bloom, than it is time to think about the coming winter.

Lack of green foods in the winter diet has an important bearing on the health of the family, and the wise gardener will see that there is a steady supply available.

The following chart shows that the brassicas contain the essential vitamins in varying quantities. The amounts are calculated from the single "X," indicating an appreciable quantity, to triple "X" which shows an excellent source.

	A	B1	B2	C
Brussels sprouts	X	XX	XX	XX
Broccoli	XXX	XX	XX	XXX
Cabbage and Cauliflower	XX	XX	XXX	XXX
Kale	XXX	XX	XXX	XXX

Kale has the highest vitamin content, and fortunately, this vegetable is perfectly hardy in our winters. Even through the snow of the last two winters it has been possible to pick when ever needed.

PICK LARGER LEAVES

The practice of cutting off the entire plant is not to be recommended. It is better to remove only the larger leaves for the table, thus permitting the plant to continue producing.

A favorite variety is the Green Scotch Curled, and a well-grown plant will reach the height of 18 inches with a spread up to 30 inches.

Seed of winter greens should be sown in a well prepared, but not too fertile seed-bed. The aim is to maintain a steady, hard growth, rather than the succulent growth we strive for with lettuce, spinach and chard. Young plants are later moved to spaces vacated by early peas and other spring crops.

Small sowings of Brussels sprouts, late cauliflower, late cabbage, spring cauliflower, sprouting broccoli, savoy cabbage and kale, will make possible a steady supply of greens from fall to late spring.

Canada Leads In Navigational Aids

That Canada is one of the leading countries in the field of navigational aids, was stressed by Tom Morrison at the Kiwanis club luncheon in the Empress Hotel, Tuesday.

Mr. Morrison, agent in charge of lighthouses for B.C., pointed to the modern diaphone, a Canadian invention which gives off timed blasts that can be heard for miles by listening mariners.

The guest speaker outlined the development of lighthouses from the first known fire lighthouse in Alexandria, built in 330 B.C., to the modern diaphone and radio and radar beacons.

Mr. Morrison pointed to the great job his staff had been doing in keeping B.C.'s 10,000 miles of coast line navigable.

Event At Buckingham

LONDON (AP) — About 100 Americans met the King and Queen and Princess Margaret at Buckingham Palace Wednesday. Fifty more watched from the sidelines as the group bowed and curtsied. It was the second of three spring presentation parties, top events of the London social season.

65 NOT TOO OLD TO WORK

OTTAWA (CP) — Business must re-examine its decision that 65 is the age for retirement and take responsibility for finding work for those over that age who are employable, a spokesman for business told Parliament's old age security committee Wednesday.

That opinion came from J. H. Brace of Montreal, chairman of the executive council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The council advocated a basic federal pension of $30 a month to all Canadians at 70 without a means test.

Pilgrims' Society Gives Pearson Warm Welcome

Minister Of External Affairs States Canada Link For Washington, London

LONDON (Reuter) — L. B. Pearson, Canadian Minister of External Affairs, received a personal ovation Wednesday night when called to speak at the Pilgrim Society dinner given in honor of Dean Acheson, United States Secretary of State.

Pearson paid graceful tribute to Acheson and to Foreign Secretary Bevin, whom he described as "my fellow members of the trade union of foreign ministers."

He noted that both Acheson and Bevin had narrowly missed being Canadians. Acheson's father had migrated to Canada and married a Canadian, and but for an ecclesiastical appointment in the United States, Acheson himself would have been born in Canada.

Bevin had told Pearson that as a young man he once decided to go to Canada. "But," said Pearson, "he did what he rarely does and changed his mind." Canada's position as a middle power gives her a special place

Subs Slapped Mock Landing

LONDON (Reuter) — Submarines inflicted "staggering losses" on "sault forces" in the big U.S. "invasion" exercise in the Caribbean last March, Lord Winster, Labor peer, told the House of Lords during a debate on naval strength.

The conclusions drawn from the test, he declared, are that no more "Salerno" or "Normandy" landings will be possible unless anti-submarine protection is enormously improved.

Writer Kills Self

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — John Gould Fletcher, noted Arkansas writer and the first poet from the southern states to win a Pulitzer prize, was found dead at his country home here Wednesday. Coroner Howard A. Dishong said it was an apparent suicide.

Newsprint President Resents Slander On Canadian Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said Wednesday night it is "a little tiresome" to have Canada's newsprint industry made the target of "recurrent slanders" in Washington.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, British Columbia branch, he said:

"The charges that the Canadian industry has 'curtailed production' and created 'artificial scarcities' are immediately answered by the figures of U.S. newsprint supply and Canadian shipments."

Without naming names, he mentioned the "periodic eruptions that come out of Washington."

Some Things that "Start" in Beer Parlors

Read the news story in the "Colonist" of Sat., May 6. A 21-year-old youth (the age at which the law permits entry to a Beer Parlor) killed his 28-year-old brother in a fight after a "party" which "started in a downtown Beer Parlor."

A "Regrettable Exception," our Beer Parlor promoters will say.

But let's look at some other most regrettable consequences that start in Beer Parlors, everywhere and all the time — awful, heart-rending, soul-destroying happenings that are NO EXCEPTION.

Broken homes — lost jobs — neglected children — "Hold-Ups" and robberies — ever-increasing ACCIDENTS AND DEATHS FROM DRUNKEN DRIVING — squandered earnings — Beer Parlors everywhere are the spawning grounds for these conditions.

The Beer Parlor promoters can't stop the news — in printing these happenings our newspapers are faithful to their trust and to their calling.

Those who would make profits from such conditions are ready with a score of "reasons" as to why Victoria should have Beer Parlors — but their only real reason is that they may make bigger profits by selling more beer.

Today, Victoria is spending over $5 million annually in liquor (as against $1½ million for Schools), yet the beer people have the effrontery to ask YOUR permission to sell still more!

They say only a few hotels will be licensed. But as a matter of fact THEY would have no say at all as to the number of licenses that would be issued. Passage of the Beer Parlor Plebiscite would be only the thin edge of the wedge. It's a wedge that would be driven deeper and ever deeper into the very vitals of our City of Victoria. It's a great distinction to be one of the very few cities without Beer Parlors . . . and that's one of the distinctions that visitors and tourists LIKE. Let's hang on to this admirable and profitable distinction. NO TOURIST EVER STAYED AWAY FROM VICTORIA BECAUSE WE DIDN'T HAVE BEER PARLORS.

VOTE "NO" MAY 30, AND SAVE OUR CITY FROM COMMON BEER PARLORS.

And remember, many good causes have been lost for want of a single vote. Don't let that single vote be your vote. Go to the polls and vote "NO" for the good of Victoria and everyone in it, including "the stranger within our gates."

To fight this menace, send your contribution to Victoria Citizens' Association, Room 14, 749 Broughton St. An official receipt will be mailed.

It ain't gonna rain no more!

No Leadership Rift, Say Victoria Conservatives

Indignation over reports of a rift in the Progressive Conservative Party over provincial leadership was shown at a meeting Wednesday night of the Progressive Conservative Association of Greater Victoria.

Warning was made at the same time that any break in the coalition of Conservatives and Liberals in B.C. must be made through a joint declaration of both parties.

A unanimous vote of loyalty to the national leader, George Drew, as well as the provincial head of the party, Hon. Herbert Anscomb, was passed at the meeting in Prince Robert House attended by approximately 50 members.

R. A. B. Wootton, former reeve of Oak Bay, called for the vote after charging "the Liberal press" with capitalizing on "unfortunate" rumors arising from a recent meeting of the provincial executive of the party.

It was suggested at that time the calling of a fall convention of the party was forced by a faction in the executive dissatisfied with Mr. Anscomb's leadership.

Mr. Wootton's reply was: "It is essential to the success of any party that there is loyalty to the leadership. We are loyal."

In seconding, Mr. Wootton's motion, R. D. Harvey dealt directly with the coalition situation, stating:

"At the fall convention we must see that this party of ours is not put in the political doghouse, as the Liberals would like to see it, in having been responsible for breaking up the coalition."

"We must not precipitate a situation which will bring blame on us for breaking up the coalition."

"When the break comes, and it must at some time, we must see that it comes on the basis of a joint declaration of both parties."

Mr. Sokol flew to Minneapolis and bought all available pumps. They arrived aboard a chartered plane.

British Government Wins Vote On Freight Rates By 23

LONDON (AP)—The Labor Government Wednesday night beat down a Conservative attempt in the House of Commons to annul an increase in freight rates of the nationalized railways. The vote was 306 to 283.

The Conservative Party attack was aimed against a government plan to increase freight rates by 16.23 per cent. The Government contends the increase is needed to wipe out railway operating losses.

A government board had recommended the higher rates, and also increases of 20 per cent in dock charges. The docks are operated by the British Transport Commission.

The board said unless the increases are made the railway system will be £100,000,000 ($310,000,000) in the red by the middle of 1952.

Chamber Endorses Land Trade Plan For Ski Resort

Recommendation that the Chamber of Commerce contact the provincial government regarding the trading of certain government-owned property for the present Mount Brenton area has been endorsed by directors of the chamber.

It was pointed out the area could be used for skiing until June, and during the summer months would be an ideal setting for campers, hikers and fishermen.

Other island chambers had already endorsed the proposal, and the local group decided to refer it to their tourist trade group.

Northern Resources To Be Developed, M.P.'s Told

Upper B.C. And Yukon Have Room For Many Settlers, Says G. Murray

OTTAWA (CP)—The government was urged in the Commons Wednesday to encourage the development of Canada's rich Northwest Territories.

George Murray (L.-Cariboo), publisher of the weekly Alaska Highway News, said that so far as the defence of this country is concerned "it is in the interest of Canada to get as large a population in northern British Columbia and the Yukon as possible, especially in the territory contiguous to the Alaska Highway."

Resources Minister Winters said it is "definitely the policy of the government to encourage people to go into the north country and develop that vast and rich area."

Mr. Murray said the government should encourage settlement in fertile valleys of the Yukon where it has been proved people can grow food and establish homes.

He expressed belief that the oil resources of the Northwest Territories are likely to exceed those of Alberta, and said the "world should be invited to come in to search for and develop this valuable resource."

Mr. Murray also urged government encouragement of the development of gold mining in the Yukon and silver in British Columbia.

He spoke as the Commons, during one of the quietest days of the session, gave third and final reading to four minor bills. Second reading—approval in principle—was given to another measure providing for the appointment of an additional vice-president to the National Research Council.

The Senate continued debate on a motion by Senator W. D. Euler (L.-Ontario) for abolition of the 8 per cent sales tax on margarine.

The Commons adopted an act respecting grants of public lands, another respecting Crown lands in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, a third amending the Precious Metals Marketing Act, and a fourth amending the Northwest Territories Power Commission Act.

Conservatives Get Ready For Federal By-Election

Study Prospects For Victoria Candidate For Contest 'Within Next 90 Days'

The Progressive Conservative Association of Greater Victoria plans on having its machinery ready to move immediately there is an announcement of a federal by-election here.

Some members, at a meeting Wednesday night at Prince Robert House, felt the Liberal member of the House of Commons for Victoria, Fisheries Minister Robert Mayhew, soon will be elevated to the Senate.

This would mean a by-election to fill the resulting vacancy in the parliament.

After lengthy discussion in which the Conservative candidate in last year's federal election was criticized and praised, a resolution was passed:

NAME COMMITTEES

"That the president (Whitworth Stanbury) appoint a committee of five to draft alternative plans for the next convention of the party for selection of a candidate."

Another resolution called for appointment by the president of a second committee "to canvass persons who might be eligible candidates for nomination at the convention."

There was a difference of opinion among the members on a plan of action in the possibility of a by-election.

The president received little support to a suggestion that a closed convention be called soon to name a candidate. Even if a by-election was not held, the candidate would be ready for the next general election.

Duplex-Roomette Cars For Average Train Traveler

Private rooms at prices little more than charged for lower berths—a break for the average traveler—are now possible with the duplex-roomette cars that will be introduced to western Canada by Canadian National Railways on May 15. They will go into service between Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Each car has 24 self-contained rooms complete with a full-width bed that disappears when not in use, toilet facilities, a removable table, temperature and air-conditioning controls, iced drinking water and a wide, picture-view window.

Two color schemes are used—coral and green. These are carried into the upholstery, floor coverings and even the aluminum-slatted window shades.

Incorporated into the mechanical design are some features that will make for smoother, more silent riding. New-type car springs cushion the weight of the cars more efficiently and oscillation dampers make for smoother riding. There are no handles on the car doors. Instead a wide push-bar, that will operate at a touch of the elbow, leaves hands free for parcels, books or handbags.

MAKE SAVING ON INVITATIONS

WINNIPEG (CP)—It ought to be over by May 17, 1951. That's the date to which Holy Trinity Parish Guild has postponed its tulip tea because of the floods. It was to have been held next Wednesday.

"We chose this date so our invitations can be used as they are all ready to mail out," said Gertrude Fairburn, publicity convener.

Business Barred

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican sources have announced a new Vatican decree bars Roman Catholic priests from engaging in private business in their own interest or for others. The decree was drafted by the Congregation of the Council March 22.

Canada's Imports From Britain Rise To Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians, with a keen eye for goods labeled "British-made," went on a buying spree during March that splattered the Dominion's over-all foreign-trade ledgers with red ink for the first time in almost a year.

Although spending $8,100,000 less for United States products than in the corresponding month last year, Canadians boosted imports from the United Kingdom to an all-time monthly high of $32,700,000. The net result, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday, was that Canada had a debit balance of trade with all countries of $5,700,000 in March—the first adverse balance since April, 1949.

There was one bright side to the March debit balance picture. The $5,700,000 figure represented a sharp reduction from the $16,900,000 debit written into the ledgers in March, 1949.

Imports from all countries in the month under review were valued at $237,400,000 compared with $200,200,000 in the preceding month and $235,900,000 in the corresponding month a year ago.

March exports, announced earlier by the bureau, totaled $228,200,000 compared with $199,500,000 in February and $216,800,000 a year earlier.

RUSSIA BOOSTS PAPER OUTPUT

MONTREAL (CP)—Possibility of Russia becoming a competitor of Canada as the world's leader of the newsprint industry was suggested Wednesday night by Murray Savage, secretary of the Newsprint Association of Canada.

He described this threat as "potent but somewhat obscure," adding that Canada's newsprint productive capacity now is more than that of all other countries combined.

Winnipeg Man Chosen Head Of Kiwanis International

MIAMI, Fla. (CP)—Don H. Murdoch of Winnipeg today was elected by acclamation to the presidency of Kiwanis International for the 1950-51 term. He is the first Canadian to hold the post since 1943.

A vice-president for two terms, Murdoch succeeds J. Hugh Jackson of Palo Alto, Calif.

With Murdoch heading Kiwanis, international presidents of the three major service clubs will be Canadians.

Walter C. Fisher of Queenston, Ont., is North American head of the Lions' Club, and Arthur Laguerre of Quebec City has been nominated for the presidency of Rotary International. Laguerre's election will be made formal in June.

At 54 years of age, Murdoch has served as president of the Winnipeg club, district governor in western Canada, two years on the board of directors and the two terms as vice-president. He is a Winnipeg laundry executive.

Records Shattered At Vic High Meet

Three records were broken and one tied, all in the relays, at Victoria High School's annual track and field championships held yesterday at Macdonald Park. The meet, run under cloudless skies, was run off in quick order and produced plenty of keen competition.

House I's senior girls began the show when they equalled the relay record of 56.3 seconds. The junior girls took it from there, knocking 3 seconds off the old mark of 57.7 to set a new standard of 54.7 seconds. The senior House I boys galloped to a new mark of 49.9, chipping 1.7 seconds off the old figure. House II junior boys, not to be outdone, finished the afternoon's program in a blaze of speed, setting a new record of 51.1 seconds, 2 1/2 seconds faster than the old mark for the quarter-mile jaunt.

Individual championships went to Diane Heaney and Cedric Robb in the senior girls' and boys' events with 13 1/2 and 20 points, respectively. Intermediate challenge cups were won by Catherine Macdonald with 10 1/2 points and Ted Whan with 16, while the junior girls' champion was Trellis Frame, who chalked up 32 points, with Bob Abbott, junior boy, amassing the highest total of 23 points to take the grand aggregate award. Garry Pynn took the Don Wilson runner-up cup in the senior boys' division with 15 points.

House IV took the team championship with 156 points. House I followed with 123 1/2 points and Houses II and III trailed.

TRACK SLOW

Times were generally slow on the heavy track with Don Plinott's 54.9 second quarter probably the best effort of the afternoon. Fast times for the relays were likely due to the full-sized track at Macdonald Park while records were established on the narrow oval at Vic High.

Willie Belobaba's double win in the half and mile events was another feature of the day.

Counting the field events run off earlier in the week Cedric Robb was a triple winner, while young Bob Abbott took four firsts. Diane Heaney was the only challenge cup winner who didn't break the tape more than once. She picked up a first, two seconds and a tie for second for her 1 1/4 points.

House II's Trellis Frame looked like a real sprint prospect when she clipped off a 7.4 seconds 60-yard dash. Her time was better than either the intermediate or junior girls.

Primary School Art On Display

The Arts Centre gallery opened this week with an exhibit arranged to show the methods used in the primary schools of Greater Victoria in art education.

At the evening meeting, Dr. Harry Hickman, president of the centre, welcomed the two speakers and introduced Mrs. G. W. Pottinger. Mrs. Pottinger spoke briefly on the part played by the P.T.A. in sponsoring the Saturday morning arts classes for students. A large number of the pictures by these students are on the walls of this exhibit. The speaker also referred to the anticipated facilities to be offered in the new Central Junior High building.

J. F. K. English, inspector of schools for Victoria, outlined the methods aimed at in the art instruction of primary students.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Ford, Holden At It Again As Movie Roles Switched

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood's two interchangeable actors—William Holden and Glenn Ford—are at it again.

For some time, the two stars have been mentioned for the same roles and it's always anybody's guess which one will play it. Now they're doing a complete switch. Quebec-born Glenn is playing a western role in "Beyond The Sunset," which was written for Bill.

And Bill is going to Columbia to play the reporter in "Born Yesterday," the role Glenn was supposed to do. Ford bowed out of the role when he couldn't come to agreement with the studio.

"My contract called for top billing," he said. "My role was a good one, but it would still be subordinate to the one played by Brod Crawford and Judy Holliday. It would have been silly for me to get top billing over them."

NOSE AND THROAT

Jimmy Durante is kiddingly mad because Jose Ferrer is playing "Cyrano de Bergerac," the film story of the big-nosed lover. "How da ya like dat?" says "The Schnozz." "I'm the only guy in pictures who could play the role without a putty nose and dey overlooked me."

Al Jolson is still suffering with laryngitis, and he really suffers when he can't talk. He'd better have his voice back by May 22, because that's when he plays "Jolson Sings Again" on the Radio Theatre. No, Larry Parks won't be needed.

COMIC COMMENTS

Abbott and Costello will do another picture after "In The

Randolph Scott Chosen By Author

Zane Grey's words posthumously chose the movie actor he wanted to play the lead in the film version of "Western Union," acclaimed as the mightiest of his Western epics and now at the Plaza Theatre. Before his death, the author specified that "Western Union" should go to the studio that could obtain Randolph Scott to play Vance Shaw, the renegade scout.

'Ambush' Booked At Atlas Today

"Ambush," starring Robert Taylor, John Hodiak and Arlene Dahl on the Atlas screen is M-G-M's first big Western motion picture in almost 10 years.

The thrill-packed story of a battle to the death between the troopers of a Western fort and marauding Apache Indians, filmed almost entirely on sites near Gallup, New Mexico.

Chamber Supports Harbor Dredging

Directors of the city Chamber of Commerce backed the proposal by the Greater Victoria Mill Operators and recommendations from the harbor development group regarding the dredging of the upper harbor at a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

In a letter from W. S. Moore, president of the Greater Victoria Mill Operators, it was pointed out that it was necessary to wait for high tide before barges and booms could be moved down from the upper harbor.

The group urged the chamber to back the proposal of deepening the harbor between the Point Ellice and C.N.R. bridges.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Do Not Risk Big Loss For Sake Of Making Small Gain

By OSWALD JACOBY
Times Bridge Expert

"Please tell us who was more to blame in this hand," requests a Cincinnati reader. "The result was neither pleasant nor profitable—except to our opponents."

"There was nothing much to the play at three spades. West opened diamonds, and East took two tricks in that suit. East then led the queen of clubs, and they took three tricks in that suit. After that I still had to lose two trump tricks to West. Down 800 points!"

"My partner's first comment was that I ought to have my head examined for bidding three spades. I said he should have bid three hearts right over three diamonds. Then I'd have known he had a really strong suit. Even if he had bid four hearts, we'd have saved points—because he had honors. Besides, they might not have doubled hearts."

"What do you think? Was South or North more responsible for the loss?"

I'm sorry to disagree with my correspondent, but I have to in this case. North was quite right and South was too ambitious.

Let's see what South was competing for. The opponents had climbed all the way up to three diamonds. They had no part score, so they could not score a game by making three diamonds. (Actually they would have made an overtrick, but that would give them only 20 points more.) The full value of their contract—giving the part score a value of roughly 50 points—would have been less than 150 points.

Hence South gave up 800 points to prevent the opponents from getting about one-sixth of that amount. Now let's see what South stood to gain.

North's failure to rebid indicated that he had a minimum or near-minimum opening bid. Therefore South could not hope to make a game. The North hand couldn't possibly be strong enough to fill in the gaps.

The danger was certainly clear enough. The spades, even though six cards in length, were very shabby. The situation might have been a good deal worse. North might have held the king of spades, and perhaps a much weaker heart suit. That sort of set-up would have cost 1,100 or 1,400 points instead of a mere 800!

It is poor policy to risk a severe loss when the best you can hope for is a small gain. South should have been content to let the opponents play the hand at three diamonds.

Consolidated To Start Steel Business In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—R. W. Diamond, vice-president and general manager of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., said Wednesday the firm will launch steel manufacturing operations in B.C. and that it hopes eventually to go "into the steel business in a big way."

He added: "There is no question about that, in due course, we will be in that business and we hope eventually to be in it in a big way."

"We certainly are in the logical position to go into that business when the time is proper. Our steel study is continuing. There's no telling when a start will be made. Maybe in five, 10 or 20 years."

Manufacture of steel in B.C. has only been hinted at previously and this announcement from the official of the big Trail industrial firm was the first indication the province will get a basic steel plant.

Canada's three basic steel plants are the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation at Sydney, N.S.; Steel Company of Canada at Hamilton, and the Algoma Steel Corporation at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Wheat Seeding Far Below Plans

REGINA (CP)—More than 2 per cent of Saskatchewan's intended wheat acreage has been seeded, compared with 62 per cent in the comparable period last year, the Saskatchewan Pool elevators said Wednesday.

Its crop report noted that two years ago farmers, encountered a similar late spring on May 7, 1948, only slightly more than 1 per cent of the wheat was in the ground.

Vancouver To Go Ahead With Preparations For Housing Development Without Other Aid

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver has decided to prepare land for new housing developments without provincial-federal aid.

The city council has voted to finance preparation of two "pilot" areas, totaling 265 lots, which have been earmarked for use in the long-awaited housing program.

A special fund of $200,000 has been established by the council to finance the plan.

The scheme was endorsed after Ald. George C. Miller, finance chairman, had explained that all the senior governments' proposal amounts to is financing roads, water and sewer installations within the boundaries of the property. The lots would be sold to whomever would buy them.

"It looks to me like the great housing plan isn't worth two-bits to Vancouver," said Ald. Archie F. Proctor.

Organizer Named
VANCOUVER (CP)—Appointment of Douglas Morris of Victoria as Liberal organizer for the lower mainland has been announced by H. G. T. Perry of Prince George, president of the B.C. Liberal Association.

Mr. Morris was with the B.C. police force before the war and then served 10 years with British intelligence in Europe, rising to the rank of area commander in Germany.

DISTANT STAR

THE STORY: Falling in love had been for Clemency Norton's thoughts when she took her post as nursery governess in a luxurious north African desert home. But soon she knew she had lost her heart to Piers Amblerley, owner of the home and brother-in-law of Syrie Amblerley, who had engaged Clemency for her daughter Baba. Syrie, despising her husband Jon and in love with Piers herself, hears of Clemency's engagement and fails to hide her hatred for Clemency. The following evening Jon, who had been drinking heavily, comes to the nursery, and tells Clemency that "she ought to know" that Piers and Syrie had once been engaged; that after Syrie's marriage Piers had only invited them to live at his home so that Syrie and he should be together. Clemency, indignant, goes to see Piers but finds him not in his study. As she waits she idly picks up his cigarette case and sees the inscription inside: "Piers from Syrie, Toujours."

INSTALLMENT 28

Clemency stared down at the lettering on Piers' cigarette case. Her throat went dry. Piers from Syrie! And he always carried it. "Toujours" — forever.

Suddenly Syrie's words came echoing back with new force: "They were parted through a tragic misunderstanding. Piers is a one-woman man."

It isn't true! she thought desperately. Not Syrie. Not Jon's wife.

Then from outside the window a woman's voice, low and urgent, spoke softly and clearly: "It will be ghastly if Jon tells her."

She swung round swiftly, as through the aperture of the open glass doors Piers and Syrie came in together from the darkness outside.

Seeing there was someone in the room, the two who had entered, stopped dead. Syrie's hand went out, catching her companion's; and so for a split second they stood.

WILD, BLAZING

Seeing them there with the intimacy of the night behind them, something wild and alien to all her nature blazed up in Clemency.

She was in no state to analyze the feeling or to recognize the destructive power of jealousy, but all that she had heard within this last hour came rushing upon her, tearing her heart and her mind. As she gazed at the man she loved and the woman she had been told he loved, something snapped in her.

"So it's true—what Jon told me." She hardly recognized her own voice—it seemed as though it must be someone else who was speaking; some other girl whose whole life had been shattered into little pieces about her.

"Clemency—" Piers moved swiftly across to her; but when he would have taken her hand she drew back.

"Don't touch me, please."

"My darling—what is it—what is the matter?" he asked.

She was deaf to the appeal in his voice; all that registered was the slender, bright-haired woman in the background—watching them.

She said: "I came to look for you, to tell you that Jon could not stay under your roof any longer, because he had lied about you wickedly."

"Well," Piers was dangerously quiet. "What did he say about me?"

"That—" She paused, fighting for self-control; then forcing herself to go on: "That you were in love with his wife, that you brought her here, because—"

"Well," Piers was dangerously quiet. "What did he say about me?"

"That—" She paused, fighting for self-control; then forcing herself to go on: "That you were in love with his wife, that you brought her here, because—"

Piers would have followed, but Syrie caught hold of his arm. "Leave her alone," she said. "Piers pulled away, but Syrie hung onto his arm. 'Let me go,' he demanded. 'I can't let her go on believing—'"

EASIER TOMORROW

Syrie repeated, "Leave her alone tonight. She is not in the mood to accept anything you may say. I tell you you won't get anywhere with her in that mood. I know my own sex. Leave her—let her cry about it, above all sleep on it. Tomorrow with the sun shining you will find it much easier to explain."

Over the years circumstances had not taught Piers to trust Syrie, but he had never entirely given her credit for the subtlety of which she was capable; what she had done to him had appeared almost crude in its directness.

In any case it seemed to him that she must know by now that her chance of making further mischief was past. Heaven knew, she had done enough.

He said: "Of all the horrible situations—"

"I know it is," she agreed. "I know you must hate me, but— you may find my advice worth taking. Tomorrow you will have far more chance with her—tell her the whole thing. You need not spare me."

He made no reply, and after a moment she went out of the room shutting the door behind her.

DULL PAIN

By the time Clemency had reached the bottom of the stairs again, that wave of passionate resentment had become a dull, searing pain. Holding on to the banisters she dragged herself upstairs, listening on every step for the study door to open, knowing the feeling to be wild and irrational, she still hoped that perhaps Piers would follow her.

She longed to feel his arms about her, to hear him deny the truth of what Jon had said, what those heart-breaking moments just past had forced her to believe.

With Syrie there, all horrible things had seemed possible. If she and Piers could have been alone.

OLDEST 'QUEEN' AT CELEBRATION

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—When the traditional maypole dances begin here Friday one little old lady will sit at home to dream of other May days long since past.

Mrs. W. H. Keary is the oldest living May Queen now residing here. A pioneer who was born here—"but don't say when"—she was present at the first of the celebrations 80 years ago.

She won the title "Queen of the May" in 1879. Both her daughters also have won the honor.

Victorian Wins U.S. Scholarship

J. Peter Hobson, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hobson, live at 2284 Windsor Road, has been appointed Fellow in Physics for the academic year 1950-51 by the University of California at Berkeley. It was reported today.

Mr. Hobson, who at present is completing his M.A.Sc. degree in engineering physics at the University of B.C., will study for his Ph.D. in California. He will be accompanied by his wife.

Mr. Hobson formerly was a student at Oak Bay High School and Victoria college.

Car Collides With Lamp Standard

Considerable damage was done to a car driven by Charles A. Morris, 810 Craigflower Road, when it was in collision with a lamp standard at Pandora Avenue and Blanshard Street Tuesday afternoon.

Morris told police the crash came when he swerved to avoid collision with another car. Driver of the other car, Ernest A. Culbert, 1035 Jasmine Avenue, told police he had stopped for the stop sign.

Two More Houses Burned 33 Freedom Sons Arrested

KRESTOVA (CP)—Fanatical Sons of Freedom continued their "protests of a third world war" Wednesday by burning two more houses here.

Police cordoned 22 men and 11 women who disrobed briefly after the homes of Tom Wolkin and Alex Barisoff had gone up in flames about noon.

Five houses were put to the torch by the Freedomites Tuesday and police charged 31 men and women with nudism and arson.

City Council Tuesday gave initial formal readings to the by-law, setting the city's 1950 tax rate at 52 mills. Final passage of the by-law is set for a special council meeting Friday afternoon.

Thirty-two homes have been burned since April 14. The Doukhobors have claimed the burnings represent protests against a third world war.

Federal Union Of Pact Lands Urged

OTTAWA (BUP)—Federal union of the Atlantic Pact nations is seen by Senator W. D. Euler, Lib., Ont., as a means of ending the cold war.

He introduced a resolution in the Senate Tuesday urging Canadian participation in an international conference to explore the possibilities of Federal Union of the 12 pact nations.

He said that if the movement for world government was started within the Atlantic treaty it might eventually spread to include Russian and her satellites.

By ART STOTT

ON THE MORE, leisurely days of the City Hall beat, Ernie Michell, then purchasing agent, used to tell us about the old "Imperieuse" and his time in the Royal Navy. Some of Mich's stories were taller than his six-foot-one, but they made good listening. He'd speak of the visit to Esquimalt of the "Imperieuse" back in the 1890's. Those were the days when his ship, by Mich's statement, was one of the prides of His Majesty's forces—and Mich was a champion carsman on its long-boat crew.

There aren't many men who can go back further than Ernie Michell in personal reminiscences on the navy here, but there are any number who can quote history and ships that have come to Esquimalt and Victoria. That's part of our tradition, a living thing that has its roots deep in the old centuries of Cook and Vancouver, and finds current blossoming in courtesy calls by U.S. submarines and other vessels.

IT'S NOT ALL navy. General nautical and maritime interest is liberally sprinkled through the annals of incidents that spring from the sea.

Except for a few students, though, this community's knowledge of the ships and men who sailed them here is a haphazard proposition. Young people know the craft that now steam out of Esquimalt in grey battle dress, and they have heard about the Beaver that piled these waters in Hudson's Bay Company trade. They remember that Discovery Island was named after one of the early explorer's vessels. From that point on, memory begins to grope about in a mist.

SOME CLEARER understanding of our seafaring background is suggested by a man who makes models as a hobby. Why not, he asks, have a naval or nautical and maritime museum here? In different parts of town, scale miniatures of some of the ships familiar to citizens have honored places on display. What about a collection of them in quarters of their own where youngsters and adults could spend half an hour or a day inspecting them?

The idea isn't new. In Massachusetts and Maine such collections are points of widespread interest and local pride. It shouldn't be hard to come by the information needed to make reasonably accurate models. The Provincial Archives have records that would furnish specifications for many of them.

IF A SCHEME like that were properly planned, all ships could be built on the same scale. As a hobby project the undertaking would have immense values, using skills in delicate construction and polishing up knowledge of different historical times. A room full of miniatures would bring home to school children and their parents some of the handicaps the early explorers and settlers overcame as they picked this part of the world from the wilderness to build it into a city of distinction.

A model of Cook's "Discovery" could give meaning to the feat which carried the poorly rewarded navigator north from his amazing South Pacific explorations to disprove the Northwest Passage myth. Another of the St. Roch would remind our children that ships have to go "over the roof" of North America to reach the Atlantic by the northern route.

BETWEEN THE two centuries those vessels represent, any number of craft could be displayed. The ships that ran the bargain excursions to California, members of the sealing fleet that wrote chapters of romance, hardship and economic gain for our people, whalers that hunted the biggest mammals of the deep, would claim their places.

Someone with a big basement might even build a Queen Elizabeth to recall the most obvious wartime "secret" that ever waited for a high tide to get into drydock here. There's a range of subjects that couldn't be exhausted in years—Captain Voss's dug-out that went half-way around the world, battle wagons that slipped down the Strait under cover of darkness and strictest security. From war canoes to giants of the transoceanic runs, we've had 'em all. Why not some museum to show replicas?

IN VICTORIA there are so many clubs and organizations that some people think they should form another club or organization to stop the formation of more clubs and organizations. You wouldn't have to create another for a maritime museum. If the hobby interests those concerned with developing manual and artistic skills—got together with the historical, naval and nautical groups, a committee would be ready-made for the scheme. The man who makes models has an idea.

Millmen Appealing For Deeper Harbor

Some Sections Unnavigable At Times, Council Informed

The Greater Victoria Mill Operators' Association is seeking to have Victoria's Upper Harbor deepened at federal government expense.

The association has received backing from the Chamber of Commerce on its proposal. And the chamber, in turn, has asked City Council to add its weight to the move.

AMONG WINNERS of scholarships at U.B.C. in list released Wednesday was David Andrew Aaronson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Aaronson, 1414 Elford Street. Holder of a B.Sc. degree from University of Western Ontario, he was awarded a $750 National Research Council studentship.

Weather Delays Ship

The Donaldson Line's Cape Corso will be a day late in docking at Ogden Point from Britain because of heavy weather off the U.S. west coast.

Bob Cumberbirch of Rithet Consolidated Ltd., local Donaldson agents, said the ship is expected late tonight or early Friday morning and will unload 200 tons of general cargo Friday.

Capt. J. St. C. Willett is the master.

School Choral Work Pleases Adjudicator

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

Among the most important classes in the Greater Victoria Musical Festival are those devoted to school choral work.

This morning's session in First United Church was devoted to these classes for which there were a large number of entries. In his adjudications, Lawrence Cluderay said he was delighted to find so much interest among the schools. He felt that the tone generally, throughout all four classes, was good and had a nice, fresh quality.

All classes had a set piece to sing and one number of their own choice. Mr. Cluderay was delighted with the standard of the "own selection" numbers in all classes and warmly commended the teacher-conductors.

In the primary class for grades 1, 2, 3 inclusive, first place was allotted to Esquimalt Elementary with Sir James Douglas second and Cloverdale and George Jay Schools tied for third place. Classroom choirs, grade 4, was headed by Sir James Douglas School in first place; Oaklands, division 9, second, and another tie for third—George Jay and Willows Schools.

Classroom choirs, grade 5, was taken by Margaret Jenkins School with a tie for second between Monterey and Tillicum, and Sir James Douglas, division 4, in third place. A good adjudication was given the Gordon Head School Choir, the sole entry in the rural and small public school class.

The chamber has written council stating present conditions of the Upper Harbor is a serious problem to the many industries between Point Ellice Bridge and the C.N.R. Bridge.

Mill operators' president, W. S. Moore, in support of the case for channel dredging, says: "The main channel and adjacent waters to the various industries are unnavigable at certain stages of the tide."

On behalf of the association, he asks that the channel be both deepened and widened to enable the continuation of business during all stages of the tide.

"As it is now," he says, "it is necessary on occasions to wait until high tide before they (the businesses) are able to float scows down the channel."

Mills now operating in the vicinity, he reports, produced last year in excess of 100,000,000 feet of lumber.

Companies depending on the channel for the continuation of their business, he says, are Dalziel Box Co. Ltd., B.C. Forest Products Ltd., Hudson Lumber Co. Ltd., Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. Ltd., P. W. Sawmills Ltd. and Harbor Sawmills Ltd.

In addition to these, Mr. Moore reports, the James Bay Lumber Co. Ltd. will possibly go into production if channel improvements are carried out.

Dry-Cleaning Necessity Not Luxury, Says Editor

Convention Told Industry Has Changed From Craft Into Complicated Business

Dry cleaning, which has changed from a craft to a complicated business in the past 15 years, is now considered to be a necessity and not a luxury, William R. Palmer of New York said here today.

Mr. Palmer, editor of the National Cleaner and Dryer, "bible" of the industry, is attending the three-day 25th annual convention of the Pacific Northwest Launderers and Dry Cleaners Association which opened at the Empress Hotel today.

"The industry now has all phases of business operations that any large business has. It is tougher for a man to run a cleaning establishment now than 20 years ago, for this reason and because it is an intensely competitive business," he said.

VOLUME TRIPLED

Because of the fact dry cleaning was considered a necessity now, volume had tripled during the past 15 years, and amounted to well over one billion dollars in the United States last year, Mr. Palmer said, adding that there had been a comparable expansion in Canada.

The trend toward problems of management had been emphasized by the establishment of a management school at Washington, D.C., by the National Institute of Cleaning and Dyeing, the editor said.

The school already has technical and research sections, and experiments are going on to improve methods. For example, the best way to do sports shirts is under study.

Employment in the industry now is more stable as people settle down and general unemployment increases. Just after the war, there was a high rate of turnover of dry-cleaning workers, Mr. Palmer said. He will address the convention Friday morning.

GRADUATES FRIDAY

Among island students who will receive B.A. degrees at the University of B.C. Friday will be Peter John E. Wyllie, West Saanich Road, Royal Oak. He took second-class honors in philosophy, but his name was not on the list of island graduates released Wednesday.

'THEFT FROM CARS SERIOUS'

"Stealing from cars is a serious matter and the public must be protected," said Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today when he sentenced Roy Lindley to four months in jail.

Lindley was convicted on a charge of stealing four bottles of beer and a flashlight from the car owned by Arthur H. Rabey, 2527 Prior Street on April 21.

IDOL OF MILLIONS

Ovation For Toscanini In Seattle

By FLORENCE LARINDE

Thunderous applause brought more than 7,000 people to their feet to pay homage to the world's greatest conductor, Arturo Toscanini, as he walked to the podium of the Seattle Civic Auditorium Wednesday. The intensity of the ovation for the 83-year-old maestro was snuffed out as he lifted his baton to lead the NBC Symphony of New York in the first offering of the generous program "Overture to Cenerentola, Ossia la bontà trionfante" (Cinderella or Virtue Triumphant) by Rossini.

As the main feature of the evening, those who heard this man of music interpret the Beethoven Symphony No. 3 in E flat Major, more commonly known as the "Eroica," will long remember the perfection of performance between leader and men. At no time did the white-haired idol of millions of music lovers display the slightest affection in his motions but rather seemed almost to cease conducting at intervals as though listening to the orchestra as a spectator. He had but to lift a finger or wave his slender baton a fraction of an inch and the musicians reacted accordingly.

Following the intermission the audience once again took their seats, except sitting on the stairs, ways, others content to stand in any spot available to hear the concluding works. These were Smetana's "The Moldau"—No. 2 of the Symphonie Cycle, "My Country"; Wagner's "Good Friday Spell" from "Parsifal" and the Romeo and Juliet Overture-Fantasy by Tchaikovsky.

When Toscanini met his final curtain, call the overwhelming enthusiasm of the people, including many from Victoria and Vancouver, delighted him immensely and he departed with a heart-warming smile on his ageless face.

IMPORTANT YEAR

F. McBrien, Philadelphia, president of the American Institute of Laundry, was the main speaker today. His topic was "1950 Will Be Important."

The convention includes a large social program, with luncheons, dinners, social hours, sightseeing tours, teas for wives, a banquet and dance and an afternoon of golf planned.

Chairman of the gathering is Wilf R. Russell, Vancouver, association president.

Lindley is charged with unlawfully attempting to dissuade Rabey from testifying against him by using threats on May 5 in the city police courtroom.

Lindley is alleged to have made the threats in connection with Rabey's testimony in the charge against him (Lindley) of stealing four bottles of beer and a flashlight from Rabey's car parked in the Top Notch Cafe parking lot on the night of April 1.

Rabey did testify and Lindley was found guilty of the charge and sentenced to four months in jail by the magistrate prior to the second trial.

Joseph McKenna, defence counsel, elected summary trial on the threatening charge, but after Rabey had testified, followed by a friend who had "listened in," Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, said: "This is a serious matter, more so than I at first thought and I think it should be dealt with by a higher tribunal."

TO HIGHER COURT

Magistrate Hall concurred with the prosecutor and committed Lindley for trial in a higher court.

Testimony of Constable John W. Sweeney, prosecution witness, was not heard at this time.

The threats are alleged to have been made when Lindley and Rabey were sitting together on the chairs directly behind the prosecutor while the court was dealing with other cases. Lindley has a criminal record dating back to 1925, the court was informed Wednesday, and this last sentence was a three-year term imposed in 1945.

Rabey said he was waiting to give evidence against Lindley in the theft case when the accused, who was out on bail, sat down beside him.

Witness said Lindley asked him: "What are you going to do, Howard—you going to bump me?"

DID NOT ANSWER

Rabey said he did not answer and that Lindley made suggestions as to how he should testify. "You know what I'm going to do, Howard?" I'm going to charge you with bootlegging. You're in 'bad trouble and I'll bump you bad," Rabey quoted Lindley as saying.

Witness, who is a part-time waiter at the Top Notch Cafe, said Lindley continued that "If I do time, I'll knock your head off" and "I'm going to kill you, Rabey—how do you feel now?"

Rabey said Lindley left the room several times and that, on the first occasion, he (Rabey) turned to a friend behind him and told him to listen in. Witness said he also told a policeman he was being threatened.

"THINK IT OVER"

Rabey said that when Lindley came back he repeated: "I'm going to kill you... life is short, Rabey, think it over."

"I'll do my few months and then I'll get out and kill you. Don't look at Mason (Const. Jack Mason who was in the courtroom) because he can't help you," Rabey quoted accused as saying.

Mom Comes Out Of Kitchen For Big Day Of The Year

By PENNY SAVER

The big event is just around the corner for Mom. Sunday, in fact, the day when she can recline leisurely in bed while the family set about to bring her breakfast in bed, and cook that day's meals. It may take her a week to clean the egg off the kitchen ceiling or get the boiled-over coffee grains out of the stove jets but mother, dear, enjoys her special day on a pedestal.

You know, just because Mom keeps high society with pots and a tired-looking dusting mop doesn't mean she wouldn't go overboard for a bottle of perfume with possibly a matching compact, and dusting powder. Just such a set sits awaiting your approval... reasonably priced, too! "Muguet des Bois" lily of the valley... to you and me... offers you a collection of fragrance. In a purse bottle, the type of bottle that emits a drop at a time; cologne $1.25 and up; dusting powder $1.50 a box, and a compact with

TODAY'S RECIPE

WHOLE WHEAT MUFFINS

One cup sifted all-purpose flour, or 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted pastry flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup whole wheat flour, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons melted shortening.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add whole wheat flour, blending well. Combine beaten egg and milk and add with melted shortening to the dry ingredients. Stir only enough to combine. Fill muffin tins two-thirds full. Bake in a hot oven, 400 deg. F., about 25 minutes. Yield: 12 medium muffins. When these muffins are served with plenty of butter and maple syrup the family will certainly come back for seconds.

Chocolates have also been temptingly piled high into china cups and saucers and are selling for as reasonably as $2. Dainty wee hatboxes tied up with bonnie bows of ribbon and topped with flowers also sell for $2.

Then again, Mom might be the type of girl who'd be more than happy with a Swiss laun handkerchief with Mother-embroidered in pastel colors. Sweet as kittens they are for 75 pennies. The main thing is not to forget that precious mother of yours even if only in a kind word and a card.

Tolmie—Monthly meeting Monday night at 8 in school auditorium. Red Cross film "Miracle Fluid."

Willow's W. H. Colby installed officers for 1950-51, at a meeting of Willow's P.T.A. as follows: Mrs. J. Hamlet, president; L. Entwistle, first vice-president; Mrs. I. Douglas, second vice-president; Mrs. R. A. Gale, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Gillam, recording secretary; Mrs. W. Hughes, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. Lacey, publicity chairman; Mrs. C. Ivings, social; Mrs. J. R. Pipes, fine arts; Mrs. T. Dickinson, literature; Mrs. W. G. Robson, health and youth welfare; Mrs. A. L. Stevenson, hospitality, and Mrs. Dickinson, membership. Mr. Colby then spoke briefly on the school building by-law and E. Greville-Jones gave an outline of needs for summer playgrounds. Report of the annual provincial convention was read by Mrs. Hamlet. Refreshments were served.

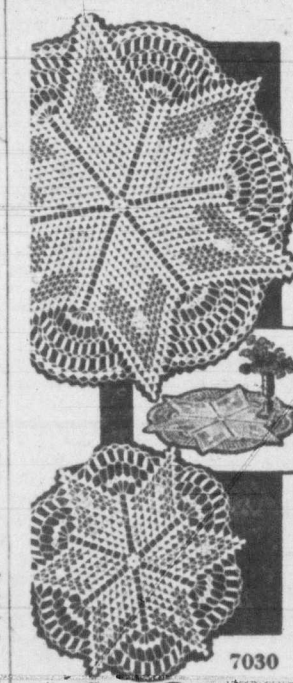

A flavorful raisin sauce is almost as good as baked ham itself. A little orange juice and grated rind gives it an interesting accent.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: Here are the virtues I possess: I am good-looking. A good dresser. A good cook. Play a good game of bridge and of golf. Dance well. Sing well. Sew, make all my own clothes and hats. Read and study all the time. Am a good housekeeper. Can make a dollar go a long way. Drive a car. Am well educated. Am easy to reason with. Have a good disposition. Am my husband's secretary. Do all kinds of fancy work. Am very affectionate, loving and kind. Love children and animals. Love everybody. Want everybody to love me. Write poetry and short stories. Play the piano. Am not conceited. What do you think of these virtues, all of them in one human being? P. SAN Answer: I never heard the like of it. Your husband must esteem himself a very fortunate man to have got the one perfect woman in all the world for his wife. Or does he find it a little trying to live up to? I should think that a mere ordinary human man would feel that he didn't show up very well in comparison.

A popular threesome of gifts for Mother's Day is pictured. There is a Swiss watch for the more financially flush, a good-looking bag, and crisp, hand-stitched white gloves.

A leather handbag, a pair of pretty summer gloves, a dainty initialed handkerchief... whatever the gift, it is the thought that counts for Mother's Day, come Sunday.

While those few in every community to whom money is no object may scan the milk coats, be-diamonded watches and exquisitely-crafted handbags that begin at $60 and work there way up, the more modest-income

Gonzales Chapter Canasta-Bridge Tea

Gonzales Chapter, I.O.D.E., will hold a bridge, canasta and tea party next Wednesday afternoon at 2 at the Nurses' Home, Royal Jubilee Hospital, in aid of the chapter's many activities.

General convener is Mrs. S. C. Rogers and Mrs. A. Chisholm, regent, assisted by Mrs. J. B. Kay, will receive the guests. Door and other prizes have been donated.

Mrs. W. R. Russell is tea convener, assisted by Mrs. Murray Cameron, Mrs. W. Kerfoot, Miss Macdonald and Mrs. Weir. Mrs. J. D. Gunn is in charge of publicity and tickets.

Other assistants are Miss M. Pitts, Miss F. Page, Mrs. A. S. Parkes, Mrs. R. W. Shannon and Mrs. W. L. B. Young.

Those pouring tea will be Mrs. C. L. Bishop, municipal regent; Mrs. W. C. Nichol, provincial second vice-president; Mrs. Chisholm and Mrs. R. F. Curtis, second vice-regent.

Remember that cheaper cuts of meat are as nutritious as steaks and chops. Be sure you get bones and trimmings you pay for. Beef and pork liver are as good for you as calves' liver.

A canned cling peach half served with tender pink rhubarb sauce makes a pretty service of fruit to start off breakfast.

TANG'S PAGODA

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The subject of worms crops up in this column periodically. I realize its importance to parents, but, also, that there can be no medical advice given about it. This is not a medical column and so the best I can do is to suggest a doctor who will diagnose worms and then treat them according to their types.

A reader's emphasis on the need for personal cleanliness is something that can bear repetition. It is quite possible, I believe, for a parent to deem some medical treatment a failure only because she has not recognized the importance of preventing the child—or adult—from unconscious recontamination of himself through carelessness.

Mrs. C. M. E. writes: "I discovered when my child was two years of age—and still using a nursery chair—that he had infestinal worms. A laxative disclosed great numbers of them and the doctor advised medicine. I had to discontinue it because it made the child so ill."

"A laxative also showed that every member of the family had worms. We took medicines for a time with discouraging results. Then I studied the life history of pin worms until I knew it thoroughly and I decided the only way to rid ourselves of them was through cleanliness."

It should be explained that the worm eggs can get under the fingernails and be transferred to the mouth or scratched into the skin and the whole cycle can begin again of worm eggs hatching of worms, becoming fertile, laying eggs, etc.

Our leaflet No. 27, "Diet from Two to Five Years," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

Souvenirs from Australia and Ceylon are held by Miss Pat Jones at her home, 2125 Central, after a five-month trip which took her round the world.

AT EMPIRE GAMES

Most Impressive Part Of Trip Was Coming Home

Her arrival back home was the most impressive part of her five-month jaunt that included running in the British Empire Games at Auckland and a trip to England via the Suez for Miss Pat Jones, 2125 Central Avenue.

The tall, dark-haired daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evan S. Jones who went to the Olympic Games in 1948 found New Zealand a lovely spot but was not taken with Australia.

"We were about six weeks in New Zealand and toured the South Island in their summer," she said, at her home today. "It was lovely and I liked the people very much."

But of such exotic places as Ceylon, in Ceylon where she purchased two miniature elephants and a big straw hat to keep the sun off," Aden on the Red Sea and much-storied Port Said, where she spent four hours, Miss Jones was little impressed.

"I'd seen enough and wanted to get home," she remarked of the quick trip. "We looked through the stores 'that was all we had time for—and I purchased some nice leather goods."

Some of her team mates made a more leisurely trip back, spending some weeks in England and then to the continent for a look at Paris and other points of interest, she said.

Miss Jones, whose family moved here recently from New Westminster, belonged to the New Westminster club when she was in training. She said she may join the Victoria "Y" club.

Victoria Graduates, Parents Honored At Mainland Party

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Robinson, formerly of Victoria and now of Vancouver, entertained this afternoon at their home on Cypress Avenue in the mainland city with an early evening reception following convocation exercises at University of British Columbia, to honor their house guests, Brig. and Mrs. J. Sutherland Brown of Victoria and their son, Athol Sutherland Brown, who is graduating.

Other Victoria graduates with their parents honored at the party included Miss Diane Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Cox; Miss Pamela Fraser, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alan Fraser; Mr. William Thackray, son of Brig. and Mrs. W. C. Thackray; Mr. John Preston, son of Brig. and Mrs. J. S. Preston; Mr. James Helmcken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ainsley Helmcken; Mr. David Ker, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. B. Ker; Mr. Brian Crane, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Crane, and Mr. Godfrey Hearn, son of Mrs. H. Hearn.

Mrs. T. W. Walker Hostess

An Austrian china centrepiece with japonicas and purple pansies decorated the table for the tea-hour party given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. T. W. Walker, Cadboro Bay Road. Mrs. David Groos, Mrs. Boyd Roberts, Mrs. A. E. Acres and Mrs. W. R. G. Wennman presided at the urns.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Boulter, 523 Davida Avenue, crossed to Vancouver last night to attend convocation exercises at University of British Columbia on Friday, where their son, Kenneth, will receive his Bachelor of Arts degree.

Miss Dorothy Coleman, a May bride-elect, was guest of honor when Miss Eleanor Paddon entertained at a surprise shower in her home. Fellow workers in the personnel office of the department of Public Works were guests. Gifts were presented on a decorated tray by the hostess. Those attending were: Mesdames M. Hindle, E. Mackey, A. Boyd, P. Gage and Misses K. Paddon, M. Rock, E. Smart, D. McMichael, R. Renfrew, N. Coleman, M. Idiens and M. Ciceri.

AT PARKSVILLE

Couple Wed Afternoon Ceremony

Spring flowers made a bright setting for the wedding solemnized at St. Anne's Anglican Church, French Creek, near Parksville, Saturday afternoon, when Florence Maeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bailey of Coombs became the bride of Mr. William George Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Daniels of Edmonton.

Rev. George Pattison officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipped satin, fashioned with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and bouffant skirt. A coronet of orange blossoms held her floor-length lace veil. Her shower bouquet was of red roses and white carnations.

Miss Jacqueline Hanson of Victoria was bridesmaid in a floor-length sheer gown and shoulder veil. Little Marlene James, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a pink net frock. A colonial bouquet of pink carnations completed her ensemble.

Harry Baker of Victoria supported the groom. During the signing of the register, Mrs. E. A. Terrien sang, "O Perfect Love." Ushers were John Olsen, Coombs, and Gordon MacPherson of Victoria.

A reception attended by 200 guests followed at Coombs Hall where the toast to the bride was proposed by B. Abbot.

For going away the bride selected a rose tailored suit with matching hat and white accessories. Following a honeymoon at Oliver, B.C., the young couple will make their home in Victoria.

St. David's Summer Sale

Plans for the annual early summer sale to be held in St. David's Hall, June 7, were discussed at a meeting of St. David's Women's Guild, Cordova Bay, at the home of Mrs. C. Hill, Walema Avenue Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. K. M. Lewis presided. Miss L. J. Owen, a new member, was welcomed.

Mrs. Hill, Mrs. H. Ranger and Mrs. H. Savage were named in charge of sewing articles for the summer sale; Mrs. H. Stevenson and Mrs. W. Ronald, home cooking; Mrs. A. N. Westwood and Mrs. J. Hutton, candy; Mrs. F. Smith, plants and green vegetables; Miss F. O. Lewis, superfluities; Mrs. A. Taylor, fish pond; Mrs. A. Miller, tea tickets.

Mrs. B. Dyer and her committee are arranging the tea. A special meeting of the guild will be held at the home of Mrs. Lewis, June 1 at 2.30, to complete plans and to make final arrangements for a concert to be given by North Saanich Musical Society Friday, June 2, in St. David's Hall.

Mrs. Taylor, leader of Junior Women's Auxiliary, invited guild members to a tea and sale being held by the Junior W.A. in the church hall, Monday at 4. Mrs. Hill served tea, assisted by Mrs. Dyer.

For Veterans—Gifts of cigarettes and flowers have been sent to veterans in hospitals and $10 voted towards comforts for veterans at Essondale by members of the W.A. to Canadian Legion who met at Harbor House, Ganges. An additional $15 was voted towards expenses of recent veterans' and pensioners' annual dinner. A staff of home cooking and candy will be held in the basement of Mouat's Store at Ganges Saturday, with Mrs. A. M. Brown convening. A new member, Mrs. E. Booth, was welcomed.

FOR HOSPITAL WEEK

Successful Dogwood Tea Draws 500 To Hospital

The weatherman co-operated to provide a perfect summer setting Wednesday for the third annual Dogwood Tea, held at Veterans' Hospital by the Women's Auxiliary in conjunction with Hospital Week.

An outstanding success, the tea was a feature of open house day at the hospital when more than 500 guests visited the building. A sum of $360.35 was realized.

Masses of multi-colored flowers, arranged by Mrs. R. D. Harvey, auxiliary president, and Mrs. A. M. Blyth, decorated the interior of the building, halls and recreation room where the tea was held.

The dogwood lapel pins which have become the badge of the auxiliary were sold at the main entrance by Mrs. A. Ketchel, and a home cooking sale and cake competition were features of the affair. A background of music was provided throughout the afternoon by the Royal Canadian Navy band under direction of Lt. Cmdr. W. Cuthbert.

The attractive tea table covered with a cutwork banquet cloth was centred with a low bowl of dark pink tulips and white broom, flanked by silver candelabra with white candles. Mrs. W. C. Nichol, Mrs. Douglas Kendall, Mrs. A. H. Cox and Mrs. Weldon poured tea. Members of the auxiliary acted as servitors. Mrs. A. Mainprize was in charge of tea arrangements.

Receiving guests in the main hall were Miss S. J. Roberts, director of Nursing Service, Mrs. W. R. Russell and Mrs. R. McVie. Mrs. J. S. Pells was general convener. In charge of the home cooking stall were Mrs. P. W. Richards, Mrs. W. Jeeves, Mrs. G. H. Sedger and Mrs. A. Luscombe.

Work Of Women Of Moose Explained By Grand Chancellor At Special Meeting

Miss Katherine Smith, grand chancellor, Women of the Moose, gave a comprehensive outline of work of the women's branch of the order, at a special meeting of Victoria Chapter, held at the Sirocco, Monday evening.

On an official tour of the Pacific northwest, Miss Smith was in Victoria for a day.

She stated at the meeting that membership in the women's branch of the order had grown from 29,000 in 1925 to more than 200,000 at the present time.

"During the war, she said, Women of the Moose had undertaken cost of training 360 student nurses and this work is still being carried on."

Women's branch has full responsibility for operation of the hospital at Mooseheart, Miss Smith stated, also the home for dependent children of the order and the psychological laboratory in connection with that home.

In addition they have the responsibility of furnishing and maintaining cottages at Mooseheart, home for aged and dependent members of the order in Florida, and they have established scholarship funds for all graduates of Mooseheart High School.

At conclusion of the meeting, members of the men's lodge were introduced and a welcome extended to the grand chancellor on behalf of Victoria Lodge by Governor H. W. Gurney and past governor S. T. Cawsey. Loyal Order of Moose of British Columbia, L. W. Cox, and Maple Leaf Legion, J. G. Johnstone.

Seeing Victoria for the first time in 20 years, Miss Smith expressed surprise at the growth of the city. On arrival Monday afternoon she was taken on a sightseeing tour of the Marine Drive and later was entertained at tea in the Empress Hotel by local officers.

SALT SPRING ISLAND NOTES

Miss Jean Dougal, R.N., has arrived from New Westminster to join the staff of Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital at Ganges.

Mrs. A. B. Fenwick of Victoria is spending a three-week holiday at Vesuvius, where she is visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson.

Rev. Churchill of Victoria, who is taking services in Ganges and Fulford United Churches on Salt Spring Island until July 1, has taken up residence at The Manse, Ganges.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Leigh-Spencer and their small daughter have returned to Vancouver after a short holiday at Ganges where they visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Leigh-Spencer.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor has left Salt Spring Island for a six-month visit to England where she will be the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Cosham of Brighton, Sussex.

Daffodils and fern in colorful vases set the floral background for the evening bridge party at which Mrs. H. May entertained recently at her home on Ganges Hill, Salt Spring Island. Mrs. S. Waag assisted the hostess with refreshments. Those present were Mesdames S. Clarke, W. McDermott, B. La Fleur, H. Day, B. M. Mouat, A. McAuslane, C. Faire, W. M. Mouat and Miss M. Perry and Miss G. Mouat.

Monterey—School choir, taking part in the musical festival this week will entertain at a meeting of Monterey P.T.A. Monday night at 8 in the school auditorium. There will be music by the orchestra under G. Bower. Election of officers will take place. Refreshments.

DIKE BUILDER SADDENED MAN

WINNIPEG (CP) — What does it feel like to work 12 hours a day for five days on a tremendous dike and then see it collapse before relentless flood waters?

Nykoruk was one of 500 odd volunteers who—in his own words—“put heart and soul into a half-mile wall of sandbags” that made up the dike in east Kildonan. “You think you’re getting some place and then this happens,” he mourned.

Ulster Means To Be Separat Brooke States

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Sir Basil Brooke of Northern Ireland said today different loyalties, religions, standards of living and economies will perpetuate the division of Ireland into two parts.

He told a press conference majority of Northern Ireland 1,300,000 people see no reason why they should join a south Ireland whose living standards were lower and whose republican form of government was in direct contrast to their loyalty.

1. Northern Ireland earns more dollars per capita than other part of the United Kingdom and is seeking foreign-investments including Canadian-investments. Her linen exports rank second only to Scotland's whisky. U.K. dollar-earner.

3. Southern Ireland's statement that it would join the Atlantic Pact only if partition ended tried to put together factors which had no relation one another.

TV Firms Scored

NEW YORK (UP) — weekly trade paper Radio warned manufacturers today the "growing evil" of unsocial television service companies. They threatened to create a "horrible problem" because "are gyping the public."

The U.S., British and French ministers met for four hours. Their first talks of the conference ranged all over the world, from east to west, and a spokesman said "the twain met."

The opening day of the conference was overshadowed by a sensational French proposal for pooling the coal and steel industries of France and Germany, and perhaps all of western Europe.

FOUR STAR FINAL

Attlee Upholds Plan To Unite Europe's Plants

"It is recognized that, in the present world situation the preservation of peace requires renewed efforts of co-operation in all fields, particularly in building up of an effective defence through the North Atlantic Treaty and the strengthening of the economic foundations of the western powers to support these efforts."

Spokesmen said later one of the major problems was to find a way to increase defence programs and finance them without disrupting economic recovery programs, especially after Marshall Plan aid ends.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson was understood to have emphasized the inter-relationship of defence and recovery programs.

LONDON (Reuter) — Prime Minister Clement Attlee today warmly welcomed the French plan to integrate European heavy industries as "a notable contribution towards the solution of a major European problem."

$750 For Victorian

TORONTO (CP)—Two western Canada students at the University of Toronto have been awarded $750 Maurice Coady search fellowships for the study of Canadian economic conditions. Both holders of degrees in master of arts from the university.

sity, they are Martin P. O'Connell of Victoria and John Garrihan of Simpson, Sask.

In a statement to the House of Commons, the Prime Minister said "It is the declared policy of the western powers to promote the entry of Germany as a free member into the community of European nations."

"The proposals also have far-reaching implications for the future economic structure of participating countries and this aspect will require very careful study by the British government and the other governments concerned."

"The British government will approach the problem in a sympathetic spirit and desire to make it clear at the outset that they welcome this French initiative to end the age-long feud with Germany, and so bring unity and peace to Europe."

Both Winston Churchill, leader of the Conservative opposition, and Clement Davies, leader of the Liberal Party, asked the Prime Minister to give time for discussion on the French plan, pre-

Attlee agreed it was a matter which should be discussed by the House.

Not Enough Lilacs

For Spokane Parade

SPOKANE (AP)—Civic-minded residents will have to lilac—we there just aren't any blossoms in town for Lilac Festival week. It's the cold weather.

Bob Miller, festival chairman, said merchants have been coming outlying communities for enough lilacs to doll up floats for Saturday's parade. But even that hasn't been enough. Some floats will be using artificial lilacs and others will be covered
